Summary: (machine translated)
Nice canyon with opening equipment. We have before us a beautiful approach to climb the valley hung Ferreras from Ordiso to then get into the waterfall of 65m by which we will return to the hut Ordiso. On the way back we can continue along the Ordiso river or return along the trail.
The ravine has a very cold water although in summer we can find the waterfall almost dry (this 2022 has been left with a thread), caution with the flows of the spring thaw.
The cave at the beginning of the ravine is already topographed, all the water goes through it to appear below.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
On the N260 towards Broto, we will continue until the Torla-Ordesa detour.
When you get to Torla, follow the Ordesa National Park road to Puente de los Navarros, which is where the access barrier to the park is located. There, take the track that goes to the left and goes up the Ara riverbed to San Nicolás de Bujaruelo. Park there

Approach: (machine translated)
Follow the forest track of Bujaruelo passing the barrier, follow this track (GR11), pass the detour to the valley of Otal, leave the Salto del Pich on the right and reach the bridge of Ordiso, where the track ends.
We will continue along the path that goes up to the Ordiso hut, we will have two options, go up the channel on the right, halfway to the hut or go up the orographic left of the waterfall, taking advantage of the equipped pass.
If we go up the channel, we will cross the beautiful valley hanging Ferreras to the stream, which just at that point dives into a cave sinkhole, we must follow the gully in search of the first rappel.
If we have climbed to the left of the waterfall, we will soon surpass it and before reaching the fence we will be able to enter the descent.

Tour: (machine translated)
A first open part up to the first rappel, from here on without loopholes, very narrow until you reach the rappels of the waterfall.

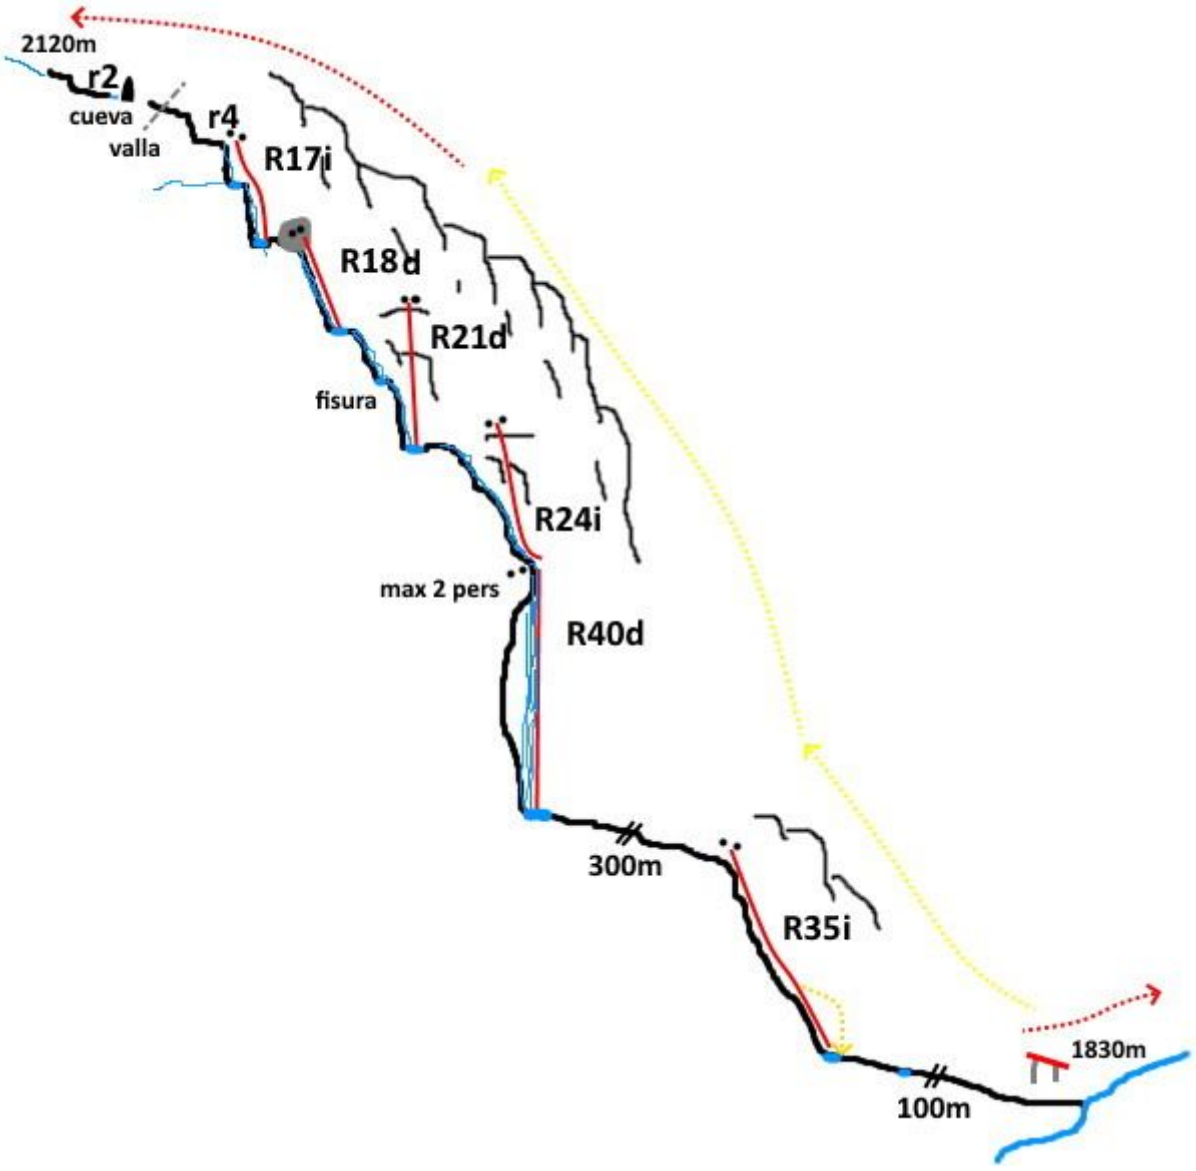

Return: (machine translated)
We will be able to make a last rappel before descending to the Ordiso cabin or avoid it to the left. Once at the hut we can retrace the access path or return along the riverbed, where we will find an 18m rappel and other possible natural abseils.
