Specialities:

Gear:
Ropes: 2x 90m

Summary: (machine translated)
The upper section is flat and very sunny. About halfway up, the terrain changes. It becomes more playful, with more basins, and toward the end, the rappels get higher.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
From Locarno to the Verzasca Valley. Before crossing the river at Brione, turn left toward the RV parking area. There are parking spaces along the road shortly after the bridge.

Approach: (machine translated)
Follow the road past the parking area and take the hiking trail toward Maggia. At an elevation of 1,440 m, leave the trail and head right off-trail toward the streambed.

Tour: (machine translated)
The upper section is flat and very sunny. About halfway up, the terrain changes. It becomes more playful, with more basins, and toward the end, the rappels get higher.

Return: (machine translated)
After the last rappel, follow the path down to the large river. On the right, you can reach the bridge by climbing over large rock slabs; cross the bridge and follow the road to Brione until you reach the next pedestrian bridge. From there, head back to the parking lot.

Since we hadn't climbed the top three waterfalls yet and there's a lot of water everywhere due to the rain, we went back up the Tremossa. We repeated some pitches and set up a few new ones. In the lower section, however, you can still easily place five anchors. (machine translated)

Nice tour (not as nice as Valegiom or Rozzera) if you already know a lot about Ticino and want to do something new. Have set a few anchors, but could do with a few more.  (machine translated)
