Summary: (machine translated)
Initiation canyon, without water except in spring or after rains. It is an alpine torrent without too much entity, simple rappels, skills and a unique environment.
To combine Fabert

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We must be located in the beautiful village of Camprodon, in the middle of the Pyrenees of Girona.
We will take the C-17 to Ripoll, there we will take the C-26 and then the N-260 towards Sant Joan de les Abadesses, where a little more than a kilometer past the village we will take the C-38 to Camprodon.
Pass Camprodon on the C-38 towards Molló, leaving it behind to continue climbing the Col d'Ares. When arriving at p.k. 20 we have a right turn and bridge over the Riort, 100m later we have the bridge over our ravine Fabert river. Just at the curve of the Fabert bridge there is a small road to the left that goes up to Fabert, here there is a small esplanade where you can park.

Approach: (machine translated)
We follow the road for about 150m to the left fork from which leaves a path parallel to the river between woods and small meadows, at 450m in a meadow we will see that reaches the river a tributary on the left (usually dry), the Sant Pere, we cross the Fabert. On the orographic left a winding path climbs through the forest that takes us back to the headwaters of Sant Pere, we will be attentive to the blue marks that will take us to the beginning of the descent.

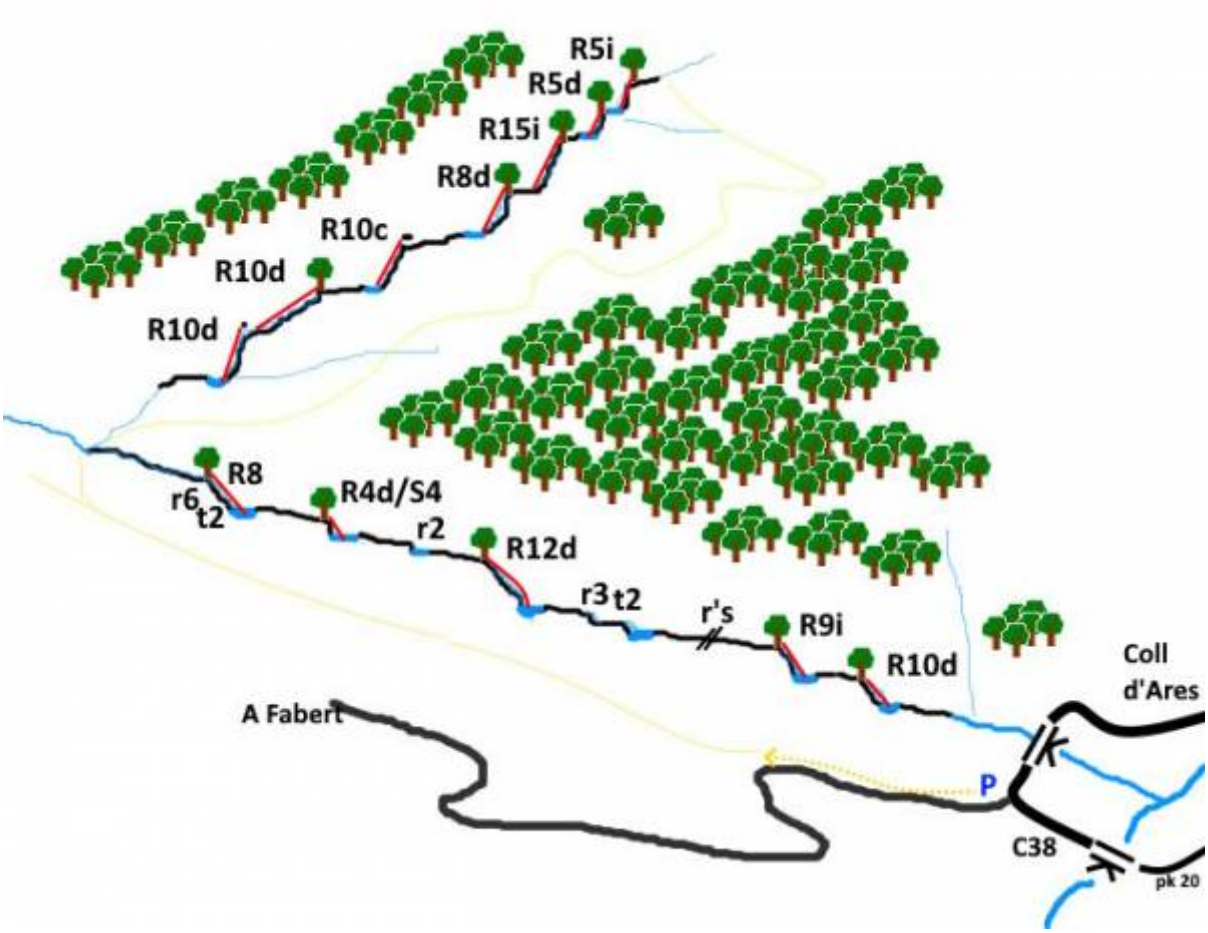

Tour: (machine translated)
Simple, a small series of rappels to descend to the Fabert, surrounded by lush vegetation.

Return: (machine translated)
When we get to the Fabert we can descend it, here we will need neoprene, or return by the uphill path.
