Summary: (machine translated) Alpine canyon, south-facing, little cut, sequence of waterfalls without runs, no possible jumps, rarely a possibility for slides, short, pleasant access
Hydrology:
Approach: (machine translated) We follow the road slightly uphill for 300m and we arrive at the farmstead L'Eterpaz, 1368m above sea level. Here the road ends. From here we follow the inconspicuous path across the meadow slightly uphill into the forest. We pass a wooden hut ("Au Pralez, alt. 1443m") and a few minutes later we reach the streambed. As with the neighboring Tenasses, you can still climb on the orographic. right side of the slope to start the descent a little higher in the stream.
Tour: (machine translated) Descent in mostly open streambed on grippy and mostly smoothly polished limestone in small-scale ledges. Practically no running trails.
Return: (machine translated) Where the stream flattens out (1270m a.s.l.), we climb out on indistinct tracks to the left and walk trail-less across the meadows up to the parking lot.
