Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Also known as the Tobas canyon, it is a simple canyon used to start. Obligatory combination of vehicles, if we do not have the option of leaving after the bridge and do only 6 rappels.
Although it has become fashionable as Bco de las Vacas, that toponymy is only accurate in its lower section. Its more accurate names are Barafonso or Tobas.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
From Agüimes on the GC550 towards Temisas
In the p.k 14,5 just in a little curve on the right before arriving to the ravine there is an area to park the access vehicle.
If we are going to make it integral we will need a vehicle of return in the GC551 in the p.k 2,6 direction Los Corralillos, in the curve on the ravine there is place to park.

Approach: (machine translated)
In the direction of the ravine along the road there is a path on the right we will take it and follow it northbound with the bank always on our left, after 1km we have a water reservoir on the right and a tributary of the ravine through which we will access with the first rappels.

Tour: (machine translated)
See mole.
Simple descent that serves as an initiation.
We will be able to make 6 rappels and to leave by the bridge of the highway and we avoided combination of vehicles.

Return: (machine translated)
From the bridge we will only have to return by the road to the vehicle if we do the short version.
If we do the full version, after the last rappel, we will continue along the riverbed to the GC551.
