Summary: (machine translated)
Short descent, only three rappels, but the view from the top is worth the detour.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Definitely to be done in spring or after very heavy rainfall to cross the canyon in good condition.
You can also do the tour in other conditions, i.e. even if it is completely dry, in "long john" or hiking clothes; it still remains a very nice experience if you include a second canyon in the valley on the same day.

Access: (machine translated)
Follow the same access road as indicated in the directions for Terme (above) and (below). On leaving Amélie-les-Bains, take the road on the left opposite the stadium, which goes up to Montalba (D53) and Mas Pagris (D53B).
At the foot of the large waterfall of Can Mascarat (Salt de l'Aigue), park at the side of the road at the start of the turn-off to Montalba.

Approach: (machine translated)
Follow the D53B on foot in the direction of Mas Pagris, then continue for 400 meters and take the only blue-marked path on the right. Climb up until you meet two paths in a Y shape, take the right-hand path for about 100 meters and then descend directly in switchbacks under the oak forest to the narrowed starting point.
Do not continue as far as the stone walls, as the path is very overgrown with scrub from this point along the watercourse.

Tour: (machine translated)
Short descent, only three rappels, but the view from the top is worth the detour.

Rn°1: C12 ANRG
Salt de l'Aigue: C47 split = Rn°2 R10 RD (out of the water towards the right bank) + Rn°3 R45 RD.

- You can get directly to the exit of the large waterfall by going around the ledge from the parking lot and passing behind the small bus stop.

Return: (machine translated)
Return without walking.
