Specialities:

Gear:

Summary:
It is an easy, water-filled descent that runs through a very narrow gorge and can be divided into two sections. The most notable obstacle is the final abseil, which features a 9-metre-long handrail with intermediate anchor points.

Hydrology:

Access:
Leave your car in the car park at the Guijo de Santa Bárbara bathing area, known as ‘El Cachapo’.

Approach:
Above the swimming area there is a bridge which we must cross; we then take the path branching off to the left, which climbs gradually.
We reach the middle bridge, cross it and continue climbing until we reach a stone house.
Next to this house there is a track which we should leave on our left and take a small path situated in front of the house.
We follow this path, which will take us to the bed of the Gargantón.

Tour:
It is an easy, water-filled descent that runs through a very narrow gorge and can be divided into two sections. The most notable obstacle is the final abseil, which features a 9-metre-long handrail with intermediate anchor points.

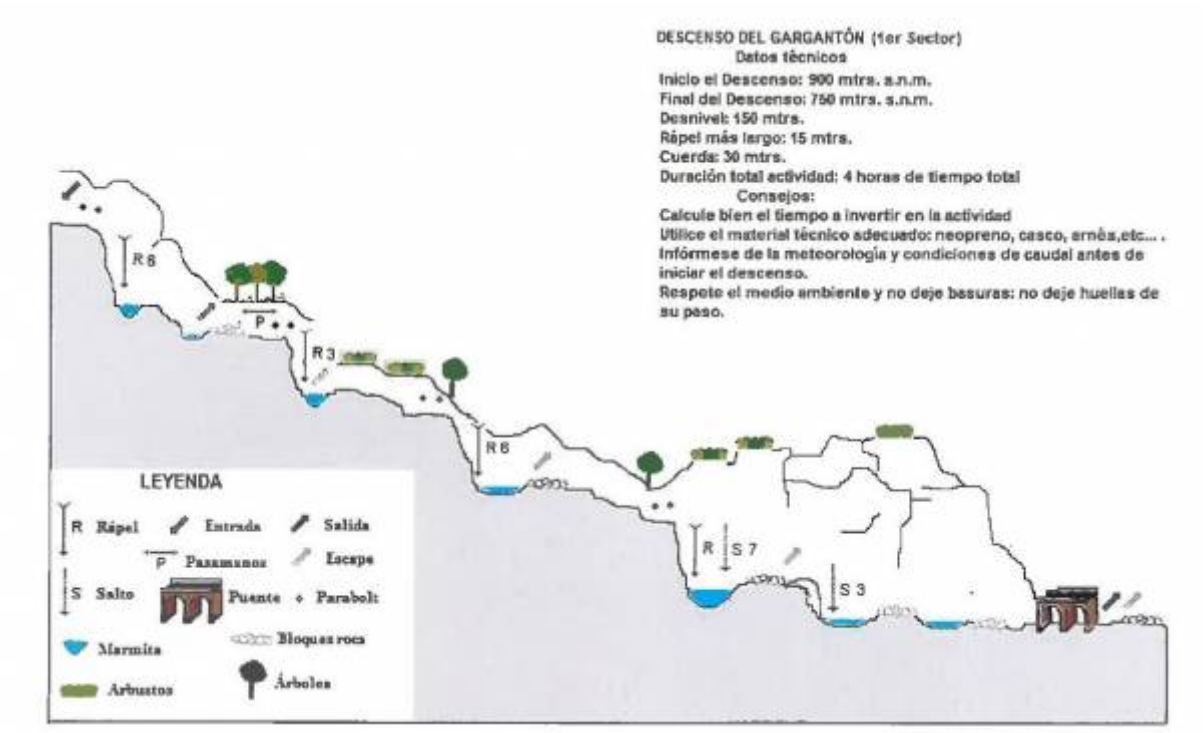

Return:
At the end of the ravine, we come out onto the road; we just need to walk up it to the car park.

Coordinates:
Canyon Start 40.1576 -5.6567
