Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Dry canyon, very fattened with a couple of very nice and technical rappels. If we do it after heavy rains we will find it fantastic.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
On the CV20 at pk 21 we turn towards Argelita on the CV194.
From the village we continue along the CV194, we leave the detour to Lucena (CV193) on the right and past the pk 12 we reach the bridge over the Bco. On the right we leave the car to return.
If we have two cars we return to Argelita, at the entrance of the village there is a track that goes up to the Castillo del Buey Negro, we take it. Shortly after, after the turn to the left we have a detour, we go right and 200m later again. We continue along the track to the limestone outcrop and park.

Approach: (machine translated)
With two cars from the bluff we leave the track on a road that goes down to the ravine.
With only one car we go back along the road about 1km and we will see on the right a milestone to take a PR that goes up the hillside zigzagging to the Buey Negro, there we will see the access track and the cliff.

Tour: (machine translated)
Technical descents, handrails, diverters, splitting,...

Return: (machine translated)
When we reach the road bridge, we exit to the right.

Coordinates:
Canyon Start 40.0742 -0.3499
