Summary: (machine translated)
The Chisalic or Follarata canyon is a vertical descent on a tributary of the Ordiceto river.
The greatest interest is found in the two waterfalls of 40 and 42m that, if the flow allows it, can be descended by the active.
This ravine gains interest combined with the Ordiceto ravine with which it shares an access track.
It is a very slippery granitic rock canyon reminiscent of the ravines in the Sierra de Gredos.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We have to go to Parzán, for this we arrive at Ainsa and take the A138 towards France. After passing Bielsa we arrive at Parzán and shortly after passing the pk 84 we see the sign "Urdiceto lake". We take this forest track that crosses the river Barrosa. We park in the esplanade next to the power station.

Approach: (machine translated)
We continue along the forest track ascending, towards Urdiceto lake, we will leave behind the entrance to the Ordiceto ravine and continue another kilometer along the track until we find a detour to a path on the right after some stairs down to a dam. Follow the path to cross the Ordiceto and then find a more or less marked route to climb to the beginning of the ravine.

Tour: (machine translated)
A canyon of relative interest with a first part of very slippery slopes until the first rappel of 16 m. After other slopes you reach the waterfall rappel R40 and then the final waterfall of 42 m to reach the end of the canyon.

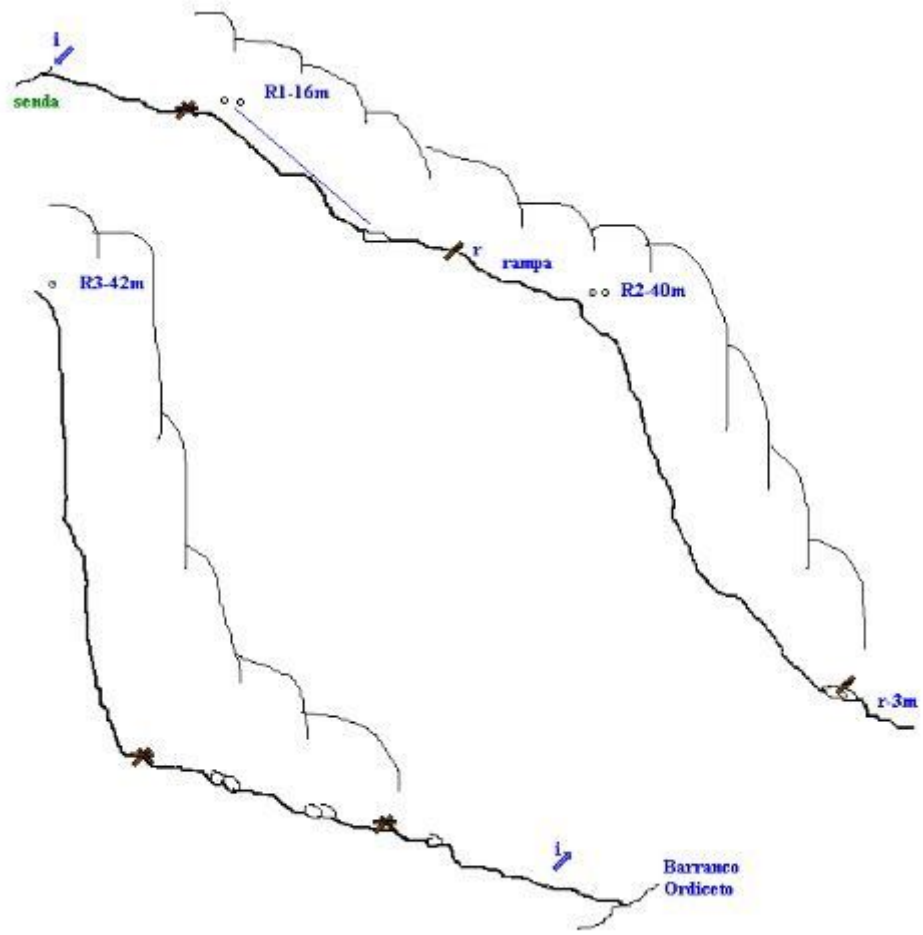

Return: (machine translated)
We will get to the Ordiceto river and from there to the access road.
