Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Spectacular and hard canyon. Long rappels, scrub areas, rocks, marmites and a long and demanding return.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We must be located in Benissa, if we go by the Ap7 we will leave to take the N332.
Once on the N332 we will go towards Calpe, just at the exit of Benissa we will have the detour to the right to the CV750 to Xaló and after 200m we will turn left to the CV749 (Pinos and Serra Bernia).
We will leave Pinos behind (7kms) and continue straight on for another 7 kms until the Puerto de Bernia, a sharp right turn with a track on the left where we will park.

Approach: (machine translated)
Without a defined path we will have to walk through stones and bushes to the riverbed that can be seen below.
Approach, ravine and return from the parking lot at the end of the ravine.

Tour: (machine translated)
A first part with two rappels, the second has a handrail that we can lengthen with a plate that there is to access if the stone is wet. Then we will have almost a kilometer of walking in which it will be better to leave the riverbed on the right to reach the final vertical.

Return: (machine translated)
Duro, we will exit to the left towards the rocky area. We will see the crack in the wall (the Pas dels Bandolers) and below some red dots that indicate where to access. We will find sections of chains and staples to help the climb.
After overcoming this step we must go down to the riverbed to follow it uphill to a pine tree with a small cairn and a not very clear path to follow to climb up the slope to the track where we parked.
