Summary: (machine translated)
Nice descent with a spectacular R50. In rains we will always find it with at least a trickle of water, the rest of the time the upper part will be dry and the lower part we will find the pools with residual water.
Note May 2025. The park has informed us that the descent of this ravine is currently prohibited.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We are located in Roquetes, next to Tortosa.
Following direction to the park of the Ports by the T342, after 3kms we turn left towards Mont Caro. Two kilometers after passing the canal we turn left. On this track we will go until we can not more (Corral de Colomet) and turn left and after 20m a detour to the right (Caramella road).
We can park at the end of the track at Casa Carvallo if there is room and if not a little further up in a parking lot on the right.

Approach: (machine translated)
Access to ravines in the area
Same approach as to Caramella, we follow the path that goes along the stream, crosses to the orographic right. Soon the path separates and we turn left, go up the ravine by the cliffs to the height of the Cua de Cavall and cross the stream. Here we have the lower access, we continue a little further and at the junction we leave the path of Caramella on the right, we go left and cross the stream again. At this point we cross the other path that goes up to here, much harder but shorter.
We will continue climbing leaving a trail junction to go to the right and this path will take us to the riverbed.

Tour: (machine translated)
Quite open, with well dug rappels that after the walking area with the crossing with the access path we will have the most spectacular part in which we chain a R20, a small rappel to replace the handrail access to R50. We will continue with several rappels and somewhat delicate skills until we reach the junction with the Bco Caramella.

Return: (machine translated)
Arriving at the Caramella, we will take the path to the left that goes down the ravine.
