Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Simple ravine with obligatory combination of vehicles, without water except for generous rains and with a quite dressed bed in some sections, several possible accesses although, from our point of view, by the Royal road is the best option to enter directly to the Saltadero de Achacay.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
Bcos Escobonal area
We have to take the TF28 in El Escobonal.
After passing the Bco Redondo, after a few meters we have a street on our left, the road TF617 towards El Tablado. We will go down this road.
We have several options for parking and access:
* From p.k. 6 we can park here and access right from the cairn to the Achacay ravine.
* From p.k. 5.5 parking here to go down the Camino Real, just at the head of the Saltadero.
* From the sharp bend at k.p. 4.4. 4,4 we will park a little further up, from the curve there is a path parallel to the bco Redondo, after 200m we will go down to cross the ravine.
With the access vehicle, we would have previously been on the beach of La Restinga, where we will arrive.

Approach: (machine translated)
See approaches in the accesses

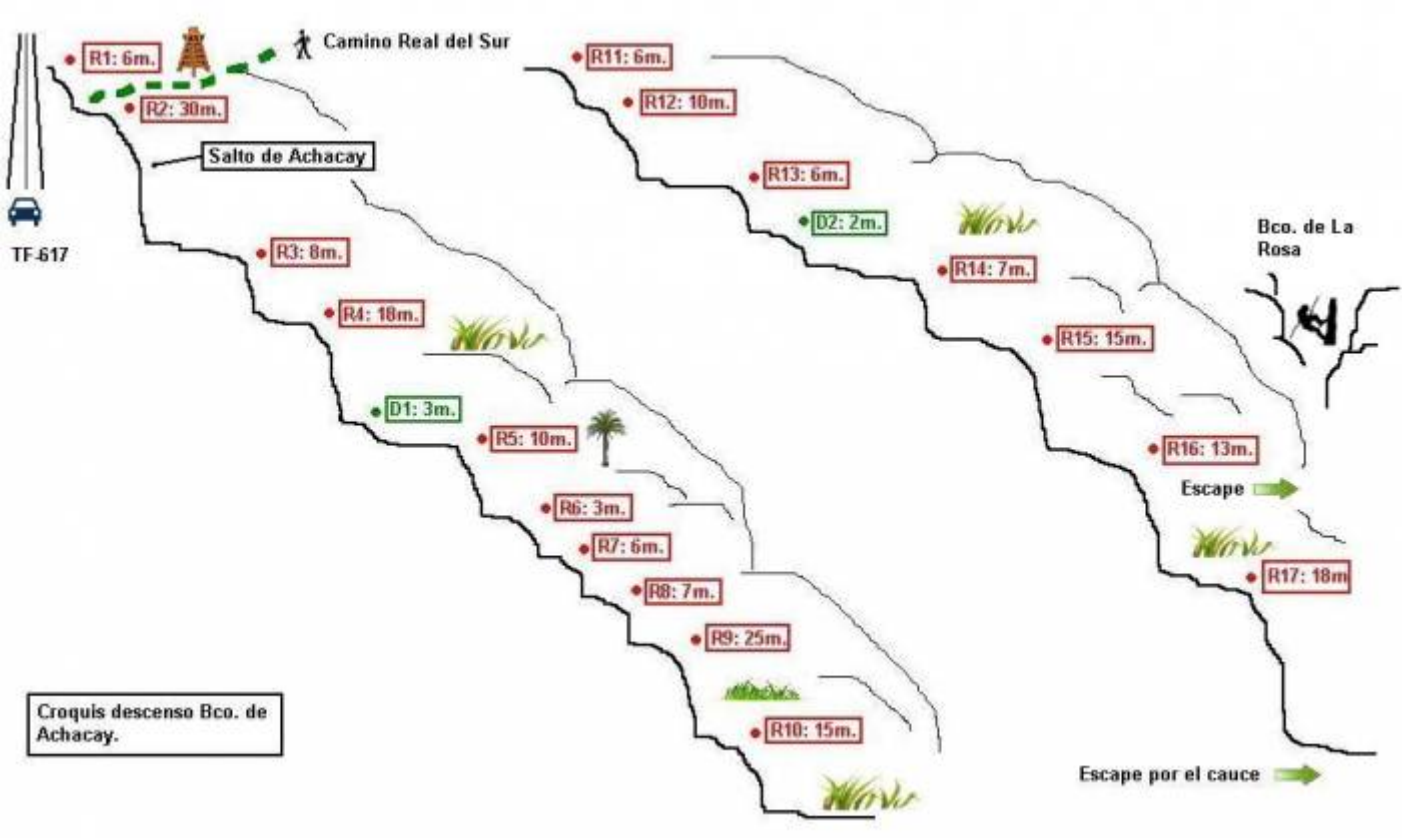

Tour: (machine translated)
See mole

Return: (machine translated)
We will be able to continue the riverbed up to the highway.
