Summary: (machine translated)
In this review we will comment on the part of Portells d'Infern which is the most interesting part in my opinion of this descent.
It is a short descent, with almost immediate access and returns, if we can go down with the car to the bridge at the end of the descent, and with a fattened area that is a real marvel.

Access: (machine translated)
We will leave Sant Llorenç de Morunys towards Coll del Jou. When we arrive, we will take the L-401 road towards Cambrils-Odèn.
At p.k. 34 the Cami de Cavallera comes out on the left that will bring us closer to Junyent, we will pass Cavallera and Roc Falcon, about 2.2km of track to reach a track that comes out on our left in a sharp turn. We will go down this track that goes down to the stream, after 100m we leave a track on the left that leads to the headwaters and continue towards the bridge over the stream.
If we could not go down we park along the track in one of the open areas that allow it.

Approach: (machine translated)
From the detour that leads to the headwaters we take the road that leads to Canalda, at the beginning it goes parallel to the river and finally goes down to the riverbed and crosses it.

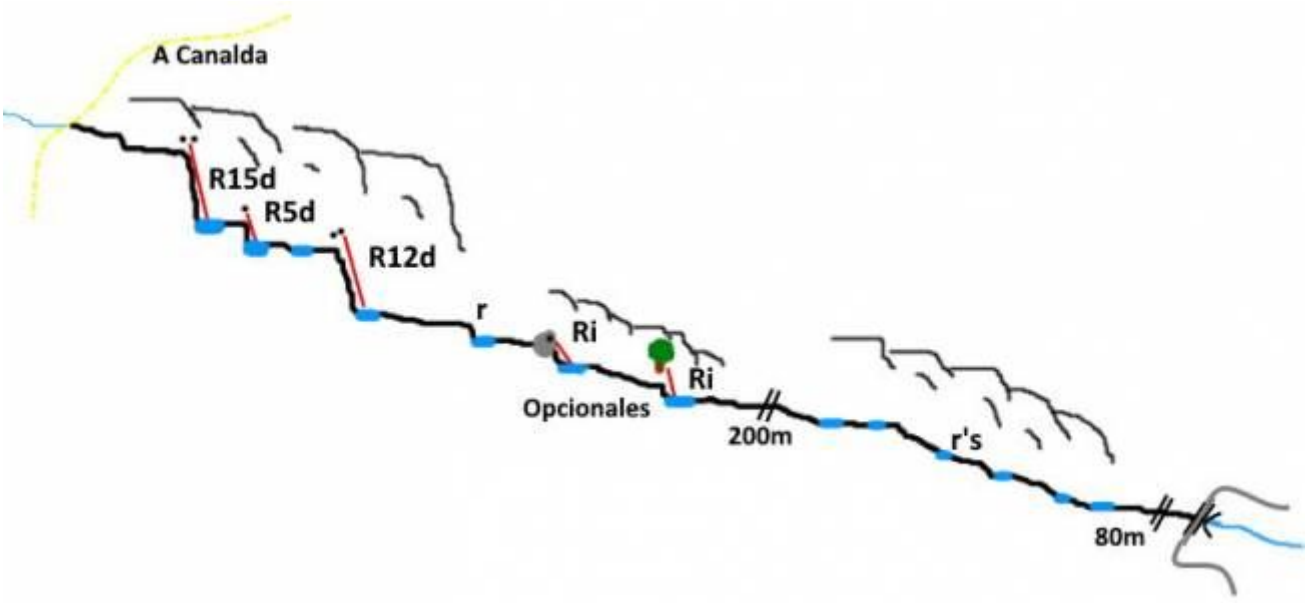

Tour: (machine translated)
A first spectacular gorge with rappels, then it opens and we have two possible rappels, to get to another gorge with ledges

Return: (machine translated)
We will arrive at the bridge of the track where we have parked.
