Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Like all the ravines of the Atlantic Pyrenees, nature surrounds you, it is lush, green, lush, magical. Simple, not too fattened but aesthetically very beautiful. Value well the flow because it collects a lot of water after rains.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We will go from Saint-Jean-Pied-de-Port
Take the D301 towards Esterençuby, cross the village and continue until you reach the turn-off for the D428 to the Source de la Nive until you reach Beherobie (the hotel).
Without crossing the bridge we follow the road on the left towards the Nive, soon the road ends and 100m further along the track we can park.

Approach: (machine translated)
We soon leave the "Source de la Nive" path and go left along the HRP up the slope. Leaving the forest and turning sharply to the left we will see a path that descends to the right towards the river.

Tour: (machine translated)
Descent with few difficulties unless the flow is high, although the facilities are designed for high flow. A narrow part and the rest is relatively open

Return: (machine translated)
Arriving at the Nive spring, with the cave on one side, is the access path (on the right).

Automatisch importiert von Descente-Canyon.com für Canyon Harpea "une très vague sente"... si quelqu'un connaît, un petit point gps pour l'entrée sur cette sente ne serait pas du luxe... A mon avis elle n'existe plus, donc on s'est replié sur l'accès 1 (pour 2 c4 l'accès 2 semble peu intéressant au final). Le canyon est très bien équipé ce qui est appréciable mais attention, nous n'avons pas pu dépasser la deuxième C10 ou c12 car trop peu d'eau pour sortir d'une vasque... On a réussi à ressortir en RD par une échappatoire.. Bref peut-être que ce canyon est beau en temps normal mais attendez bien de forte pluies car malgré l'orage et pluie de la veille, il est impraticable en l'état.
