Access more than 3h (plan route finding, best to use GPS track). Demanding tour, with constant balancing of water/fall risk. Rappels mostly directly in the water jet. At the pool with the return (R8, 34m) we sent one person without a rucksack ahead, who then helped the others out of the pool using a throw bag. The pool at the third-to-last rappel was no problem if you take the stance on the left. Despite the many tributaries, the mass of water/water force does not increase towards the exit of the rappel.
