Summary: (machine translated)
There are two descents to do together because they are very short. The first one has only 4 rappels and in summer it almost dries out and the Pish waterfall is a beautiful waterfall very frequented so we will have many people watching us.
Caution with the high flows in spring due to the thaw, from the end of spring we will be able to do them.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We have to be located in Vielha, in the Val d'Aran.
We take the N230 towards France and after a few kilometers we turn off to Arros at the traffic circle and after 20m we will see the detour to Arrós on the right or to the Saut deth Pish in front where we will go.
We will go up this little road through the beautiful valley of the Varadòs river to the Plan des Artiguetes where we will park. We will have in front of us the final waterfall, the Pish.

Approach: (machine translated)
We will leave by the path on the orographic right of the Salt until we surpass it and reach a point where the river crosses (it is the entrance to the Pish) we will continue along the path for about 100m and we will turn left, towards the stream which we will access below the confluence of the streams.

Tour: (machine translated)
4 short rappels that with good flow can be fun, we reach the junction with the trail and start the Pish, a beautiful waterfall and then another small rappel.

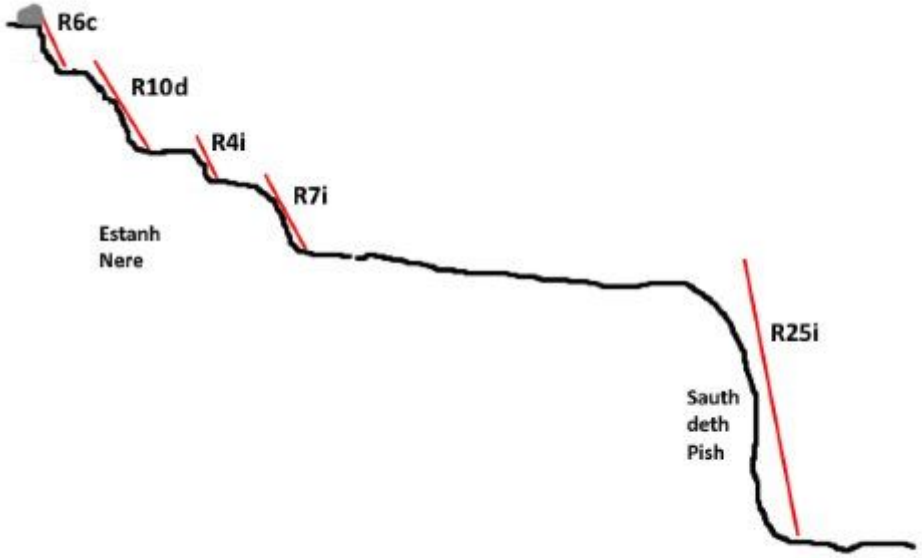

Return: (machine translated)
We continue along the river for a few meters and we come out
