Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
This canyon is generally accessed from Mazandu and can be used as an initiation canyon except in times of high flows. It only has two obligatory rappels.
Good atmosphere, fun and with water all year round.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We must be located in the Valley of Ansó very close to Zuriza.
From Pamplona on the A21 towards Jaca until Berdún where we turn left onto the A1602 to Ansó.
From Jaca by the N240 to Puente de la Reina where we turn right towards Hecho on the A176. Just at the entrance of Hecho we have the detour to the left to Ansó.
Just at the traffic circle at the entrance to Ansó we have the detour to the Valley of Zuriza, we will go through here to the campsite Zuriza.
At the left turn closed at the height of Zuriza campsite there is a track straight ahead to Tacheras, we will go through this open and beautiful valley to the parking lot.

Approach: (machine translated)
Access Mazandu, Achar and Chipeta
We cross the bridge and continue climbing towards the Alanos. We will pass the livestock buildings and we will go to the Mazandu Refuge. When we reach the pass we will see the stream, we only need to go to it to do Mazandu.
If we do not want to do Mazandu we could follow its course to Chipeta.
At the height of the R3 we have access by the access path to Achar.

Tour: (machine translated)
Simple and very entertaining canyon. If we access through Mazandu, we will do an R5 and then we have two in Chipeta that can be climbed before the two obligatory rappels. The final part is very open with projections and pools where you can bathe.

Return: (machine translated)
On the bridge or in the pool area

Coordinates:
Canyon Start 42.8513 -0.7782
