Specialities:
Gear: Ropes: 2x30m
Summary: (machine translated) Intensive and very short descent.
Hydrology: (machine translated) Demanding, but very short. There is a way out on the left bank just before the entrance to the large cascade.  June to October, depending on snowmelt and precipitation (like Barrosa).
Access: (machine translated) When you leave the Bielsa tunnel on the Spanish side, cross the second bridge over the Rio Pinarra and park next to the new avalanche barrier after the Rio Salcorz.
Approach: (machine translated) Go straight back to the bridge over the canyon.
Tour: (machine translated) Intense and very short descent. The first slide is no problem, then the C30 comes out of the water, followed by 2 slides/jumps.  There is a fractio (not visible from above) 5 meters below the upper relay to avoid falling into the big waterfall. Can be combined with Barrosa, Trigoniero or Ordiceto. Do one of these routes first and don't take off your wetsuit!
Return: (machine translated) After the right tributary (Barranco Salcorz), the trail leads back to the road over scree.
