Summary: (machine translated)
Generally dry canyon except after rains, in summer we will do it without neoprene. It has a beautiful 50m rappel and some interesting sections, the rest is little more than a hiking route.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We must approach to Beceite by the A-2412.
Cross the village looking for the signs to Parrissal and continue along the road/track. We will arrive at the barrier in 3kms (you have to pay to pass), we can park here and walk.
If we want to make a combination we can continue to the parking of Parrizsal and save 30min of track.

Approach: (machine translated)
From the Pla de les Mines leaves the path to the Balanguera PR TE153. We will go up to the hill where the ruins of Mas de Ferreret are and we will leave the PR to go to the left along the riverbed, soon the projections will begin.

Tour: (machine translated)
A stretch of abseiling and climbing up to the cirque where we have the R50 and a couple of R18. Then, another section of climbing and an hour's hike back to the trail.

Return: (machine translated)
We will follow the riverbed to the track and, depending on where we have parked, go up or down the track.
