Ropes: 2x 10m

Summary:
First, a 4-metre descent, then another of 7 metres, which leads into a pool of water that stands full in summer… Afterwards, you can cool off to your heart’s content in the spring that feeds the end of the gorge, or in the Rio Vero.

Hydrology:

Access:
Take the motorway from Huesca to Barbastro and, at junction 77, head towards Abiego/Alquézar. On reaching Abiego, turn off towards Adahuesca and from there continue to Alquézar.Ì
From the Barbastro side, take the A1232, following the River Vero upstream almost as far as Alquézar.
Shortly before reaching Alquézar, turn off towards Colungo and continue along this road towards Lecina; at kilometre marker 16.5, you’ll find the Vero car park on the left.
If you want to hike the Vero, you can organise a carpool.

Approach:
On the path to El Vero, at the first sharp bend to the right, a small path branches off to the left towards the Argantín riverbed

Tour:
First, a 4-metre descent, then another of 7 metres, which leads into a pool of water that stands full in summer… Afterwards, you can cool off to your heart’s content in the spring that feeds the end of the gorge, or in the Rio Vero.

Return:
We set off along the Vero, just below the mill, and followed it upstream in search of the access path

From the parking lot, take the path to the right. Good for abseil training. Very short, both for the approach walk and the descent, so can easily be followed by a second canyon. Arrival in the Vero and discovery of the mill - magnificent! Group size 8, correct number (machine translated)
