Summary: (machine translated)

rapel canyon

Hydrology: (machine translated)

Canyon with little water. It probably carries water more frequently in the winter months.

Access:

Approach: (machine translated)

If you have an off-road car, you can halve the access by driving to the exit and then following the path that winds through the bushes until you reach the stream.

Tour: (machine translated)

The tour has little water overall, most of it only comes at the last rapel. There are often paths around standing pools on the orographic right-hand side.

Return: (machine translated)

From the 25 Fontes, follow the path to the left back to the road. At the first inn you can also take the bus up to the road.

Certainly a lot more attractive with more flow. We bypassed some pools on the right bank (paths available). (machine translated)
