Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Collection canyon with only 3 rappels, all of them blown, dry and unremarkable. The access is short but the return takes too long for what this canyon offers. The facilities are all in trees.
It can be an option if we catch it with water and that is all passed by the zone, to combine them with the rest of the zone.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
On the N260 between Boltaña and Ainsa at km. 442.8 over the bridge, turn to Arcusa and Barcabo on the A-2205.
Or from Ainsa, just across the bridge the A-2205 to Guaso and Barcabo.
In both cases we will pass Guaso and continue south towards Barcabo for 7kms until the detour to the left to Santa María de Buil and Sarratillo.
Access to Santa María de Buil
Just at the entrance of Sta Mª there is a track on the right where there is a sign for the trails. We parked in this area.

Approach: (machine translated)
We will leave the track heading north until it ends and gets into some fields, we will continue north to the obvious basin that opens in front of us.

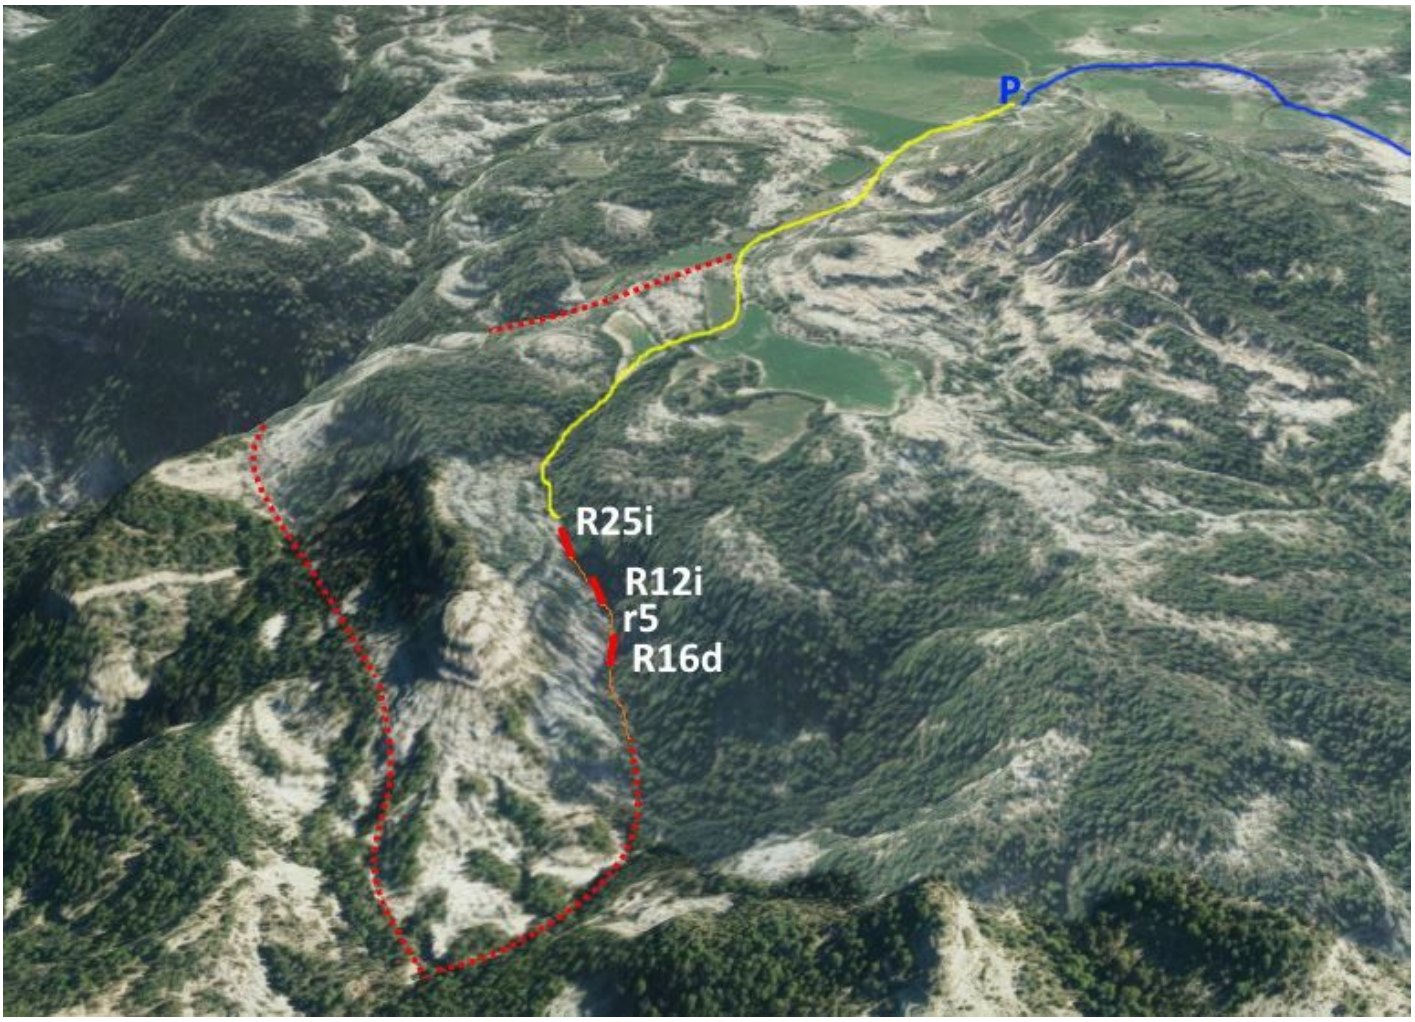

Tour: (machine translated)
3 jumps, 3 terraces to overcome.

Return: (machine translated)
We will follow the course of the ravine for about 100m to leave the terraces on the right to go up the slope and find a path on the divide. We will follow this path south to the parking lot.
