Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Dry ravine that only carries water in torrential conditions.
ATTENTION
Between December 1 and July 15, climbing, hiking and other activities that involve approaching these cliffs may harm protected species and constitute an infraction of Article 26.4 of Law 4/89.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We must get to Villel by the N330. Once there we will take the road to Fuensanta (Sanctuary). After passing the sanctuary we will follow the Rubiales road for about 500m until we see the exit of the ravine. Leave a car here
The second car will follow the same road and after passing the pass of Valdanos (we leave the detour to Tramacastiel on the left), we continue on the right to Rubiales another 1.5kms approx until we see an esplanade on the right and the descent to the ravine.

Approach: (machine translated)
With a car we must continue along the road towards Rubiales 1km. There is a path to the right that goes up the hill and down to the access to the ravine.
With two cars, the second one leaves us in the descent to the ravine. There is no path, it is simply to follow "the riverbed" to the ravine.

Tour: (machine translated)
Continuous climbing and rappelling (most of them can be climbed).

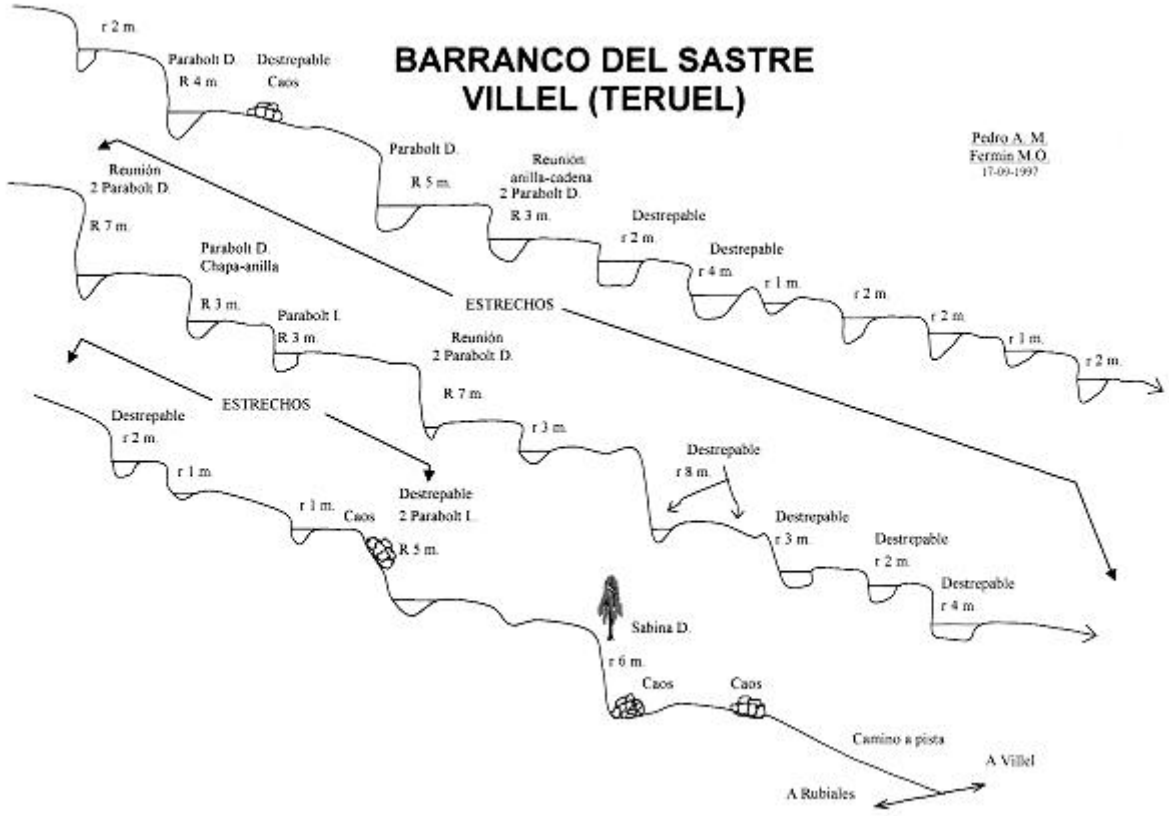

Return: (machine translated)
The gully exits to the parking area

Coordinates:
Canyon Start 40.2324 -1.2323
