Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Canyon forgotten for its lack of interest in its first part, its second half is a luxury with spring flows, but be careful because the water can get quite strong in the final rappels. Very slippery and full of vegetation on the walls.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
By the N260 to Sort, once there we turn off by the C13 to Llavorsi, we will pass it and go to Esterri d'Aneu. We can also take the C28 from Vielha (Vall d'Aran).
Once in Esterri, at the entrance of the village, we have the detour to the right to Escalarre and Llavorre. We will cross the Noguera Pallaresa at the height of the power station and just there we turn right to Escalarre. Entering the village of Escalarre we have the bridge over the riu d'Unarre, here we will park, it is the exit of the ravine.

Approach: (machine translated)
We will cross Escalarre and after the last houses there is a path that crosses some fields and goes to the village of Unarre just by the orographic left of the river. We will go up 1km from the end of the village, if we follow the path, it gets closer to cross the river, in that case we will have passed the river.

Tour: (machine translated)
A first part of jumps and cliffs without much interest to reach the most boxed area. Here a first grooved rappel welcomes us to later take us to the two highest rappels.

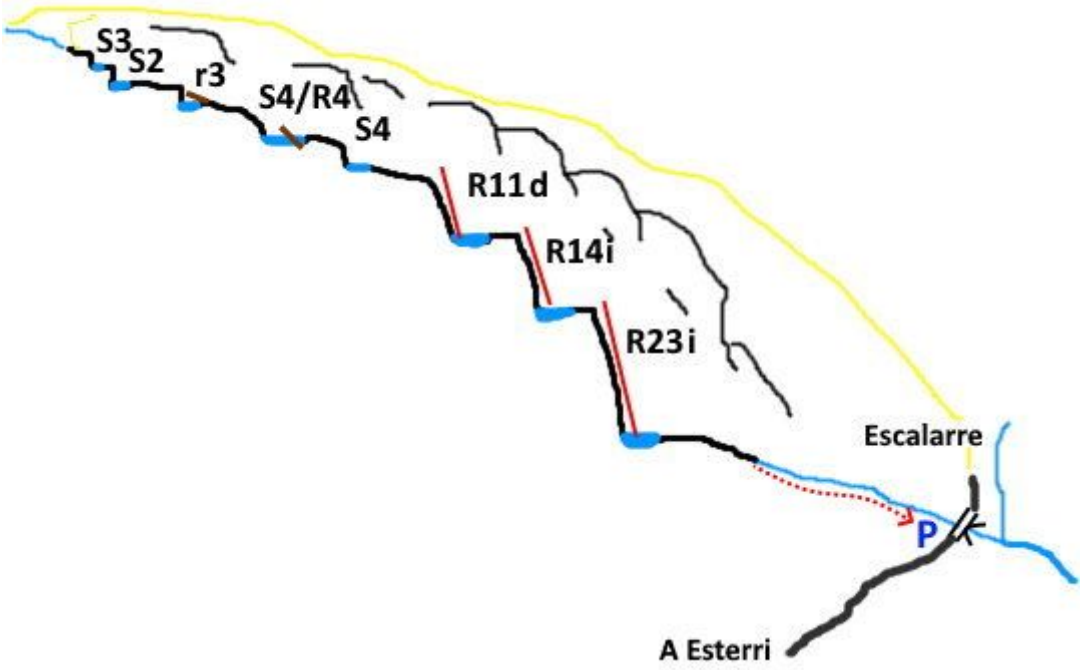

Return: (machine translated)
After the last rappel, the valley opens up and it is time to take the right bank and follow it to the bridge. The left bank is private property
