Summary: (machine translated)

Long and largely open ditch, with few high points and lots of walking and downclimbing.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)

A vehicle for the exit of the tour can be parked at the Kaiserhaus on the Brandenberger Ache (below the Kaiserklamm). You get there from Kramsach first driving in the direction of the Sonwendjoch chairlift, from the parking lot of the valley station then along the orographic right bank of the Brandenberger Ache in the direction of Aschau. After the town sign of Aschau, do not drive into the town, but turn right and continue up the Brandenberger Ache until you reach the large parking lot at the Kaiserhaus (about 13 km from Kramsach).\nWith the second vehicle, drive to Kufstein and from there in a northwesterly direction to Thiersee. Via Schmiedthal and Ascherdorf you reach Landl (about 9 km from Vorderthiersee). Immediately after the village turn left over the Thierseer Ache and up to Riedenberg (a good 5 km from Landl). At the first houses turn right and park the car at the exit of the row of houses (980 m above sea level).

Approach: (machine translated)

From the car in a westerly direction on a dirt road to the forest. Shortly before reaching the forest on a path half-right above the Karnergraben uphill. After reaching the forest road on this about 350m left (west), across the stream (Karnergraben entry) and immediately after right onto a path that leads us up to the Riedenbergalm (1400m above sea level). Continue on faint climbing tracks in a westerly direction to the Thaleralm (1435m above sea level). From here, continue west on the slope until it branches out on the opposite slope. Now without a trail in a NW direction steeply up the slope and beyond down to the streambed of the upper Weißgriesbach, which is reached at about 1450 m above sea level.\nIn the beginning you can still descend for some time to the right of the streambed to the first rapell (from the tree).

Tour: (machine translated)

The ditch is not without scenic appeal, especially the access and the return march through the Kaiserklamm, but can otherwise only offer interesting (narrow) passages. At about 880 m above sea level, the Weißgriesgraben flows into the Eilegger Graben, which descends from the left.\nIn view of the large amount of time required, also for moving the vehicles - best done the evening before -, something for lovers of combined tours and collectors.

Return: (machine translated)

At the bridge, shortly before reaching the Brandenberger Ache, go out to the left or right, then wade through the Brandenberger Ache and follow the path on the far bank (orographic. right) downstream. The path leads us through the Kaiserklamm gorge to the Kaiserhaus.
