Summary: (machine translated)

Forest canyon, scenic attractive, sporting less.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)

From Germany: Pass Mittenwald on the B 2 to Scharnitz, from Austria from Innsbruck past Seefeld on the B 177. Turn southeast of the Isar bridge, cross under the railroad and after 400m on the left hand side park your car in the large parking lot (fee - anno 2017: 6 euros).

Approach: (machine translated)

From the parking lot, we first follow the Hinterautal road for a few meters, which leads into the upper Isar valley. But we immediately turn right onto the road that leads in a southerly direction into the hamlet of Eisack. At the foot of the slope the road does not turn right and we take the path that goes up the slope in a left turn. We cross a stream and then take the "Teufelssteig" (devil's path), which leads away from the slope in a southerly direction upwards. At 1180m altitude we cross "Die erste Klamm" (designation from digital AV map 2010) and at 1250m altitude we come to the "Teufelslochklamm" (AV: "Die ander Klamm"). Here is the (upper) entry (1h 15 min.).
Man can also enter at 1180m altitude - lower entry. To do this, follow the forest road straight on after the first stream crossing. We come to a place where a hiking trail branches off to the right ("Tafeleweg", in AV 2010: "Hochwaldweg"). It cuts the forest road again and crosses "Die erste Klamm" at 1090m (AV map 2010). We approach the edge of the Teufelslochklamm in the further ascent and then descend steeply to the bottom of the stream (lower entry, 1180m altitude -50 min.).

Tour: (machine translated)

Downclimb, walk, interrupted by smaller rappel. Even before reaching the bridge we get off.

Return: (machine translated)

From the bridge over "our" stream we follow the "Isarsteig" to the left, finally steeply down to the houses of Scharnitz. At the foot of the slope we take the path that takes us westward again to the district of Eisack. Once on the tarred road, we take the approach path in a northerly direction back to the parking lot.
