Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Wild descent in the forest, several jumps follow one another, including a nice sloping and wet slab.

Hydrology: (machine translated)
Quite open and very little activity.
At low water it is a river with sufficient current, the water level is often quite high.

Access: (machine translated)
As you leave Olette in the direction of Font Romeu, turn right onto the D4 towards Oreilla and avoid the road to Évol (a village listed as one of the most beautiful villages in France).
Follow Oreilla, then Ayguatébia-Talau and take the D4C. Just after the second bridge, park on one of the few widenings on the descent.

Approach: (machine translated)
Go back to the last bridge over the Pujalts and then take the PR hiking trail on the orographic left bank.
First take the path uphill, then in one of the hairpin bends you will see a path that stays at the same height and leads along the river to the starting point.

Tour: (machine translated)
Wild descent in the forest, several jumps follow one another, including a nice sloping and wet slab.
Follow this descent to the bridge and leave it in good time before you go under it.

Return: (machine translated)
Climb back up to the road at the bridge.

Coordinates:
