Summary: (machine translated)
Dry gully with a 55m vertical split. Of no further interest, collector's item.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We have to be located in Dos Aguas, a beautiful Valencian village. We will leave the village by the CV435 and at the height of pk19, in a left curve, we will find a widening in the road on the right side where to park. About 700m before we will have seen on our right the cut to descend.

Approach: (machine translated)
We go down the ramp to the Bco de la Umbría and go straight ahead. We go through a track and continue south looking for the most comfortable way to climb. We will go turning to the SE following a "losing path" that we will see that goes to the upper zone of the rocky outcrops without going up to the peaks. We go around the cirque to rappel and reach the dry course to descend.

Tour: (machine translated)
A vertical and a vertical...

Return: (machine translated)
We will go out through the dry riverbed up to the track we crossed, we will take it to the right until we find the area where we entered.
