Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Open and very amusing in its first part if it is rainy season.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We must get to Orduña. Once there we take the A3618 (old BI3931) and then BI4532 to Lendoño-Goikoa and shortly after we park in the recreational area of Fuente La Choza.

Approach: (machine translated)
We take the track that goes up and crosses the stream, from here on we take the track that goes "parallel" to the stream until we change to a road that takes us to the headwaters at about 740 meters above sea level.

Tour: (machine translated)
Open descent with leaks all the way down. It has several springs but in summer it usually dries out if it does not rain. In spring after abundant rains it is a very amusing descent, especially the first part which is where the rappels are concentrated and where the 40m rappel is. After crossing with the track (there are two crossings) you can abandon the descent or continue it up to the road.

Return: (machine translated)
If we leave by the track we undo the way up. If we do it on the road, we have the car 200m away.
