Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
More than a canyon, it is the descent of the equipped routes in the cave of Las Grajas. From the top there is an impressive 60m rappel.
Perfect activity to complete with the climbing routes in the area or to make the nearby village ferrata.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
Getting to Archidona
From the municipal swimming pool by the same street of the Via Ferrata that then divides. To the right the ferrata and to the left towards the climbing routes and the Cueva de las Grajas. At the foot of the routes we parked

Approach: (machine translated)
Looking at the cave, on the right we have the slope where we will go up we will have to go halfway up the slope without climbing to the peak, to access the wall above the cave we have a first rappel eating the descent.

Tour: (machine translated)
A first rappel to access the upper part of the cave from where we will rappel the second 60m long.
Keep in mind that at the bottom there are trees in which the ropes can become entangled, we must be able to block our descent to untangle them.

Return: (machine translated)
We go out to the lower runway and return to the car.
