Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Dry gully except after rains, which is the best time for the marmitas to be clean. Access somewhat difficult

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We are located in Ulldemolins on the C242. We will follow the C242 towards La Granadella until pk 26,5 where we will find a track on the left with a place to park.

Approach: (machine translated)
We will leave by the track to the south, towards the cut on the Montsant. At the top of the ridge, through the crop field we will continue south until we leave the almond field and find a path that goes south to go down to an esplanade on the Fraguerau congost. We will turn left towards the right tributary, there is no path in this area so we must be guided by a cairn and our orientation. We will look for an area with a single large pine tree that has a rope for rappelling.
After the first rappel we are on a ledge with a plate to make a 6-7m rappel with pendulum to the left ledge. We will go horizontally towards the two tributaries of the headwaters, here we will see a large characteristic block. We have the option of rappelling from a juniper tree or going around the left tributary to descend through the forest to the riverbed.

Tour: (machine translated)
Simple rappels that will take us to an area of landslides with skills and a couple of more rappels. When leaving it we will throw ourselves to the ledge to avoid the clothed zone. Later we will descend again to the riverbed.

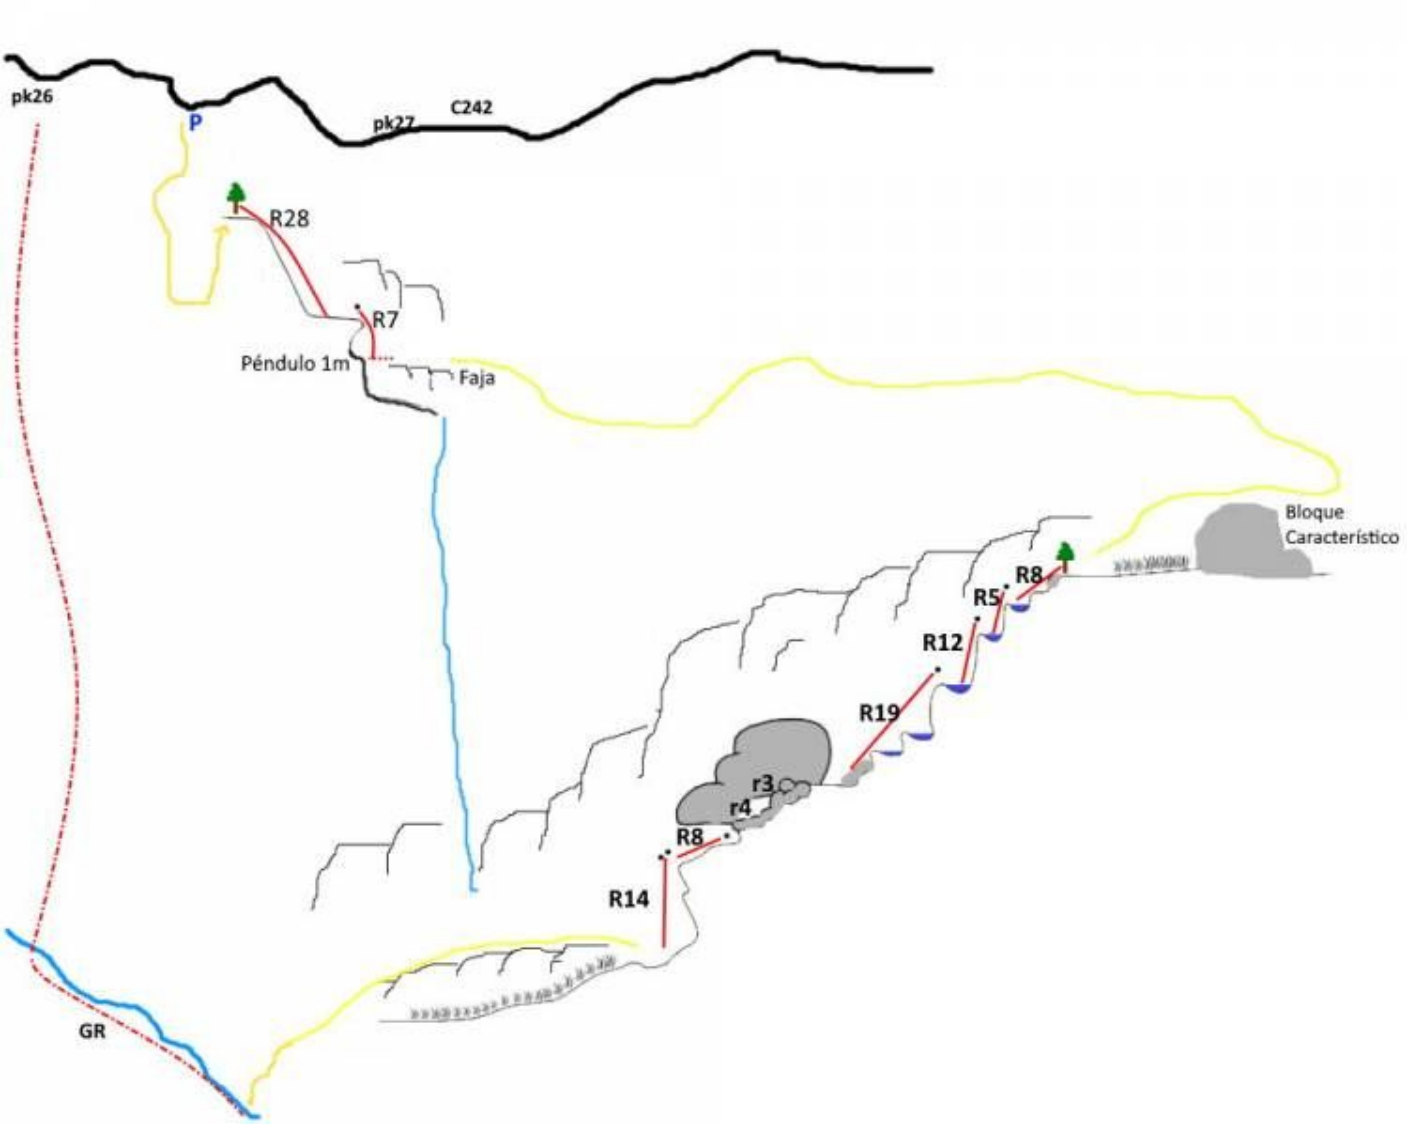

Return: (machine translated)
We will see a path on the right side that then changes to go a few meters up the Montsant to the area where we cross it. We will go up to the GR and follow it. We will cross the suspension bridge and start the climb that will take us to the road.
