Summary: (machine translated)
Also known as Yardo or Santiago.
Well-formed canyon in flysch with long stretches of walking through a lush environment, a multitude of skills, in many cases equipped and a final waterfall of 40 incredible. In summer it remains in a thread

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
On the N260 between Boltaña and Fiscal
In the p.k. 460,5 we have the Llardós bridge and on one side the pedrera. Here we have several places to park

Approach: (machine translated)
We cross the bridge in the direction of Fiscal and soon there is an ascending path through the mountain that goes up to Sasé. We will arrive at a track that we follow north and we will leave the detour to the left that goes up to Sasé, soon the track crosses the Bco Santiago, moment to get into the riverbed.

Tour: (machine translated)
Well-formed descent, with many kicking areas between rappels but all of them comfortable. Many of the detrepes we will find them equipped because they are somewhat uncomfortable to climb. We will finally reach the R40, an impressive waterfall where the descent can be considered finished. From here on, we will have to climb up to the dam, where, a few meters before, we will have a path on the right with a chain to go up it.

Return: (machine translated)
From the dam along the path on the right orographic side.

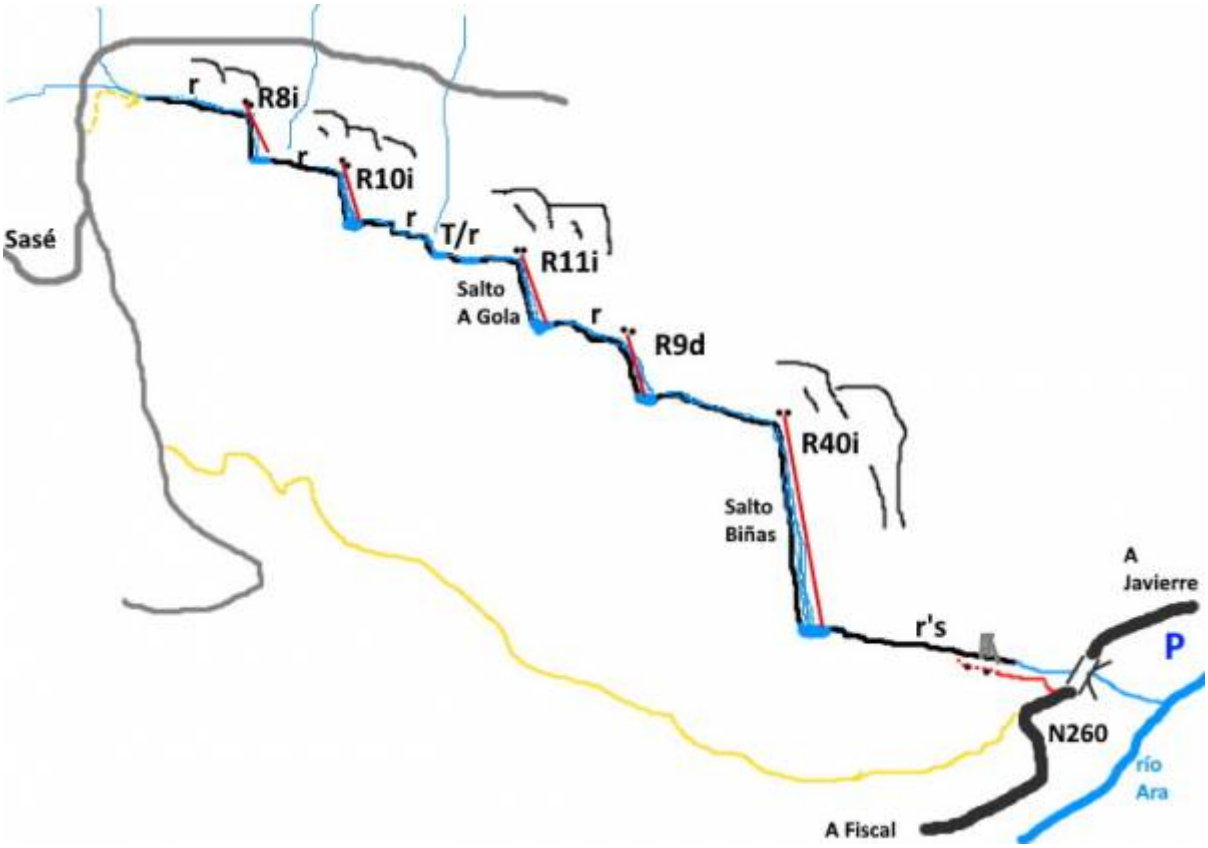

Coordinates:
Canyon Start 42.4862 -0.0864
