Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Considered a collector's canyon, if we do it in spring, with good flow, we will have a good time. Caution with the exit through the reservoir.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We leave Granada towards the ski slopes of Sierra Nevada on the A395.
We will turn off to Pinos Genil and Güéjar Sierra by the GR-3200, past Güéjar the road crosses the Genil and goes up the mountainside. Passed the p.k. 5 or in the fourth curve to the left, there is a road to the right towards the farms above the reservoir. We will travel about 300m until a track comes out on the left, we will park here.

Approach: (machine translated)
We will leave by the same track to take the path that goes up the orographic right of our river to the stone bridge, where we access the riverbed.

Tour: (machine translated)
Simple descent unless the river is loaded, everything is natural anchorages so we will have to carry material for these installations.

Return: (machine translated)
When we reach the reservoir we will have to exit to the right to go up the steep slope and go east in search of the track that goes down to the beach. We will go up the track to the place where we have parked.
Another option is to swim along the edge of the reservoir to the beach.

Coordinates:
Canyon Start 37.1422 -3.4516
