Summary: (machine translated)
It is rather a hike in an area of very high interest under the walls of the Roca de Turmeda. It is an option to return if we have done any ravine of Les Comes.
In summer it will be completely dry.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
Bcos de la Terreta
By the N230 towards Pont de Suert
Access to Bcos de la Terreta
At p.k. 101, just before the detour to Arén, we have the detour to the right to Orrit and Sapeira. We will have to follow this small road towards Sapeira and Castellet at all times.
Once we get to Sapeira, we must continue straight ahead without entering the village, towards Castellet and just at the exit park.
If the access is from Esplugafreda, 3 kilometers from Sapeira, in a left curve of the road, there is a track in front of Esplugafreda. When we get there, after passing the remains of the church, we will have a left curve and then another softer right curve where a track comes out on the left, to the ravine. We will park here

Approach: (machine translated)
The path down from both Sapeira and Esplugafreda is quite lost, with the track we will have no problem to reach the riverbed. Then we will go up the river as best we can to overcome the walls and more fattened area.

Tour: (machine translated)
Descent between blocks, more like water trekking

Return: (machine translated)
Along the same access path
