Summary: (machine translated) Short, beautiful vertical tour with views of the Zugspitze; several slippery spots; almost all rappels are in the water; some sharp edges; well set up; nice small narrows; several escape possibilities; exposure east; often spectators at the last cascade; sedimentary rock; catchment area 3.9 Km ² .
Hydrology:
Access: (machine translated) Coming from Germany you drive at the old customs office Ehrwald in the direction of the village Ehrwald. After a short distance across the border, there is a large cross and a sewage treatment plant on the right side of the road. Then there is a small bridge that leads over the Loisachbach with a parking lot for about 10 cars directly level with the road. Park here.
Approach: (machine translated) 30min From the parking lot, cross the nearby bridge. If you want to briefly check the water level, follow the bike path (gravel) to the right after the bridge for 5min. Then go back to the bridge and follow the asphalted mountain road (no driving) to the left in the direction of "Häselgehralm". The road leads after a rightward haipin bend over a bridge (Häselgehrbach). Then follows a leftward haipin bend with a cross. From here it is not far until you meet the stream more or less straight. The entry is at about 1090m directly at the wooden beams (bridge) that lead over the Häselgehrbach.
Tour: (machine translated) 1,5-2h The canyon is very continuous, except for a short walking passage in the upper part. Depending on the water depth, some steps can also be slid or jumped. The canyon is technically not al too difficult, but should not be underestimated at higher water levels because you often rappel mandatory in the water stream and the rock is usually very slippery. Several small beautiful washouts / exposures and the max. 25m high rappels in combination with the short access are optimal for a casual half-day tour.
Return: (machine translated) 5min After the last cascade at about 970m, follow the bike path on the right for 5min back to the starting point.

This time the water level was low, making it much less slippery. A small via ferrata is installed at the foot of the last abseil and there are climbing walls on both sides which are also suitable for a few rope exercises. (machine translated)

Stands in order. Upper part narrowly cut and beautiful. Lower part quite rugged and open with many slippery places and break-off edges. The most beautiful thing about the tour is the view of the Zugspitze massif in good weather. If the canyon is on the way, you can certainly recommend it, but otherwise there are tours in the area that are more fun. (machine translated)
