Nothing to report except for three damaged ropes due to a double-rope drop of about 7–8 meters (the starting rope is still usable, though). Not a particularly memorable canyon, with a very steep scree approach. Toward the end, there are 2–3 nice chutes. If you park at Ospitale di Zoldo, there is a fountain where you can clean up and hydrate. Photo 1: the highest and most water-filled abseil in the upper section Photo 2: two damaged anchors that are unusable Photo 3: a narrow section toward the end Photo 4: fun pools before the exit (machine translated)
