Rappels from a car bridge on a single bolt. It's only 70m to the water. The jump is superiore. Let the gallery operators know beforehand, we were first given unfriendly and then friendly instructions. There are probably two more emergency exits, one under the large parking lot in front of the tunnel gallery and one in front of the last bridge over the canyon, over which the hiking trail also goes back. Impressive surroundings, very cold, but canyoning technically only of limited interest. (machine translated)
