Summary: (machine translated)
Parallel to the Barranco del Rey canyon is a dry, simple canyon with rappels of up to 45m in which we can enjoy very interesting rock formations.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
By the TF51 between Arona and Los Cristianos
From the TF1 freeway we will take the TF28, just a kilometer further and almost arriving at the South hospital, we have a track on the left where we will leave the car to return.
We will follow the TF28 passing Chayofa a couple of kilometers more until the traffic circle from where the TF51 to Arona leaves, where we will take another 2 kilometers to the Jungle Park detour. Here we have a small place on one side to park the access car.

Approach: (machine translated)
The access is quite obvious, we must descend to the riverbed and follow it wherever we can until it starts to get boxed in.

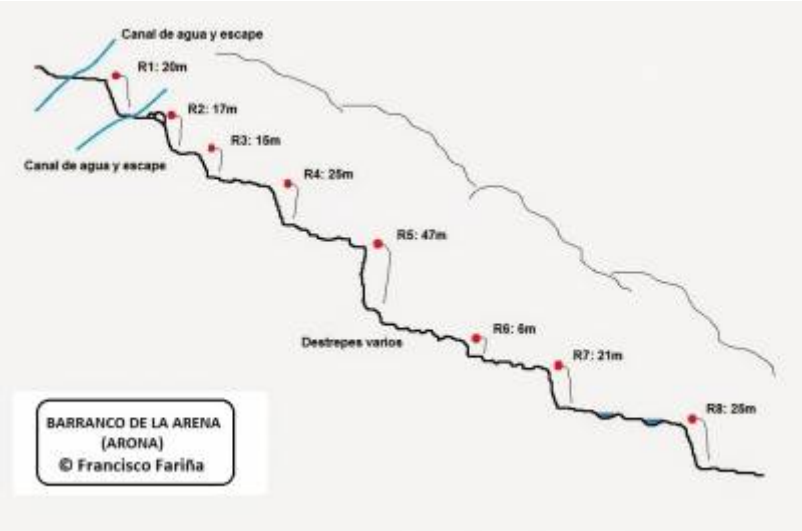

Tour: (machine translated)
See mole

Return: (machine translated)
After the last rappel we reach a fenced farm on our left, which we will follow until we find a passage through which to pass, we follow some water pipes that leave us on a track with fence and from here looking for passage to the road.
