Summary: (machine translated)
Nice water descent without rappels for all ages, you can do only the part from the cave/surge or start from above and get into the cave. Caution with high flows.

Access: (machine translated)
We will be located in Ponts on the C14. At the exit traffic circle towards La Seu de Urgel/Andorra, take the C1412b towards Tremp.
We will take the local road to Cristofol and Puig de Rialb (we will see a sign indicating the Rialb river and the Forat de Buli at 17km). We will follow the signs to the Forat and the Rialb river. After those 17kms we will see an esplanade with a track on the right where to park. Here we leave the return car or if we only have one car.
With two cars we will continue along the small road, passing a hill with the remains of a hermitage and the Foradot oxbow, the next oxbow is Cerdanyes and after a little while the road ends and becomes a track, we will look for a place to park before reaching the track. The best place is a left curve where the road begins to descend with views of the entire valley of Rialb, on the right there is a small esplanade perfect (3.5kms from the return car).

Approach: (machine translated)
To access the source and continue to the Forat we will have to follow the road to the area outlined for the access car and follow the road that becomes a track. From the return parking lot to the access parking lot there are 3,5kms and from the access car park to the access car park there are 1,6kms. We will go down the track until almost reaching the height of Rialb, in a torrontera (bco Barraques) we will see that we can go down to the right to the river.
If we only want to see the Forat, from the parking area follow the track down to the river, cross it and go up the path that brings us to the end of the tunnel.

Tour: (machine translated)
Uncomplicated descent that in summer we can find full of people bathing in its turquoise water pools.
If we make the complete route we will have to be careful with the tunnel in case of high flow (spring or after heavy rains).

Return: (machine translated)
We will see the access path to the Forat and we will go out through it to the track and from there to the car.
