Summary: (machine translated)
Simple ravine over the Bubal reservoir that can be quickly combined with Badiecho. It does not usually carry too much water and in summer it almost dries up.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
Map Baldiecho and Coronazo
By the N260 from Sabiñánigo to Biescas. We will continue straight on towards France on the A136 until just before reaching the Bubal dam, here we will have the detour to the right to Hoz de Jaca. The road crosses the dam and soon, before the horseshoes of ascent to Hoz, we have two streams Baldiecho and Coronazo, the second one is ours. A few meters before we can park.
If we take two cars, with the access car we will continue, we will make a sharp right turn, we will cross Coronazo again and we can park here on the right for the entrance 2. If we want to do the first part of destrepes we continue to the village, shortly before we have the bridge over the stream and next to it we can park.

Approach: (machine translated)
Access Baldiecho and Coronazo
With two cars the access is immediate from the village bridge (entrance 1) or from the road bridge (entrance 2). With a car you have to walk up the road, 10min to the first bridge or 20min to the village.

Tour: (machine translated)
Simple descent somewhat dressed in its first part and with enough remains of "civilization" but without problems to walk. Just when we reach the road we have the rappels. In the last bridge we will be able to leave by the right or to continue by destrepes without interest until the swamp.

Return: (machine translated)
From the reservoir, wherever you can see best to go up to the road. Better to exit at the last bridge on the right side of the road.
