Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Long access, combination of cars and long return via Kakouetta because it is one of the most remote ravines in the area.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We must reach Sainte-Engrâce.
From the French side by the D113.
From the Spanish side via Isaba we climb the pass of Piedra de S. Martin and turn left.
The return car will be left in the parking lot of the Gorges de Kakouetta.
The access car we will go towards Sainte-Engrâce and soon we will have a detour to the right to the Oilloki ravine. We cross the Uhaytza river and at the next detour we continue straight ahead and the rest of the crossings on the right. We will reach a bridge over the stream, there is a sign indicating the Oilloki ravine. We continue for about 500m and arrive at Larrandaburu. We continue along the track with the car as far as we can.
The next bridge is Hutsarteko and we will see that the cuts of Kakouetta end, we arrive at the beginning of the valley to the Cayolar de Larregorri where we leave the forest to some meadows. Here we leave the car

Approach: (machine translated)
By the path that goes to the right from the farm we go directly to the stream. We can either enter here and do the ledges or follow the trail, with the creek on the right and further down to the river.

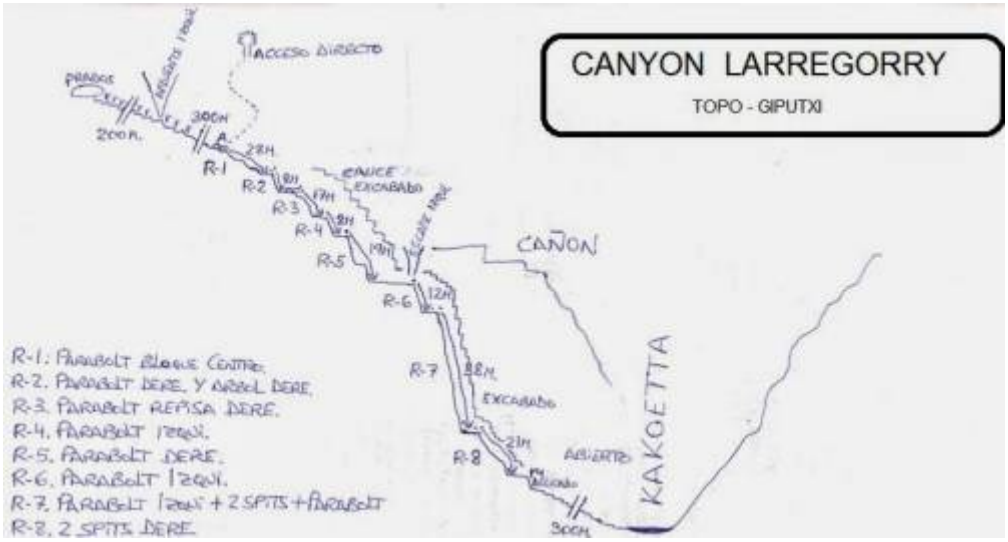

Tour: (machine translated)
8 rappels in a very aesthetic environment

Return: (machine translated)
We arrive at the beginning of Kakouetta and return along its walkways.
