Summary: (machine translated)
Watery hiking and rappel canyon

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
From the center of Sondrio, take the SS 38 for 4.3 km along the right bank of the Adda towards Lago di Como. At the exit of the industrial area on the right of the road, turn left on the Adda and go south towards Caiolo. In the center of the village turn left and then right again before the bridge over the Livrio. In the street on the orographic left bank of the Livrio we look for a place for the lower car.\nWith the second one we go 1 km (from the road bridge towards Sondrio (NE), then we turn right and go not quite 2 km to the houses of Albosaggia at the wooded foot of the slope. From here, head WSW up Via Torre as far as the hamlet of San Antonio (2.5 km from Albosanggia). Then continue for about a hundred meters and park the second car at the edge of the woods.

Approach: (machine translated)
We look for an indistinct path that runs away from the car in a southerly direction towards the Livrio valley, crosses the slope diagonally downwards and reaches the streambed.

Tour: (machine translated)
Access not easy to find. Initially in the streambed long march over "Schutthalde" to the constriction. Even then not overwhelming. Several times small rappel "in the stream".

Return: (machine translated)
After the water drainage and slide brake, turn left out onto the trail and continue downstream to the car.
