Not a real canyoning tour. Aquatic hike - with more or fewer swimming spots depending on the amount of water. We went here because our accommodation was within walking distance. Highly recommended as a home canyon - there are better options for long journeys. The water was warm. Swimming was also no problem in a 2 to 3 mm wetsuit (in summer) and was even pleasant. You don't need a harness or ropes until you reach the suspension bridge. We got off at the suspension bridge because we couldn't find a safe way to downclimb shortly afterwards. Instead, we continued along the hiking trail in the Quelltuff area of Lingenau (machine translated)
