Summary: (machine translated)
Short canyon with a rappel high point at the end. The protection is very sparse, which means that some places have to be avoided, sometimes through unpleasant terrain. Therefore, this tour is in no case suitable for beginners. In winter, after a long cold period, you can also ice climb here.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
By car on the Westautobahn exit at Regau, just before Bad Ischl a road branches off in the direction of Weißenbach am Attersee. Follow this road until after about 8km on the left side of the road (just before the quarry) a forest road branches off. On the opposite side of the road there are some parking possibilities.

Approach: (machine translated)
Follow the forest road to its exit, cross the streambed of the Weißenbach and reach a forest road. Follow this to the right (west) until you reach a small wooden hut where a cart track branches off to the left (south). Follow this path until you reach a signpost. Now you can either visit the final waterfall by following the path in the direction of the Nixenfall, or you can go directly to the entry in the direction of the Eibenberg. If you want to go straight to the entry, follow the ascending path until you reach a bridge where the entry is located.

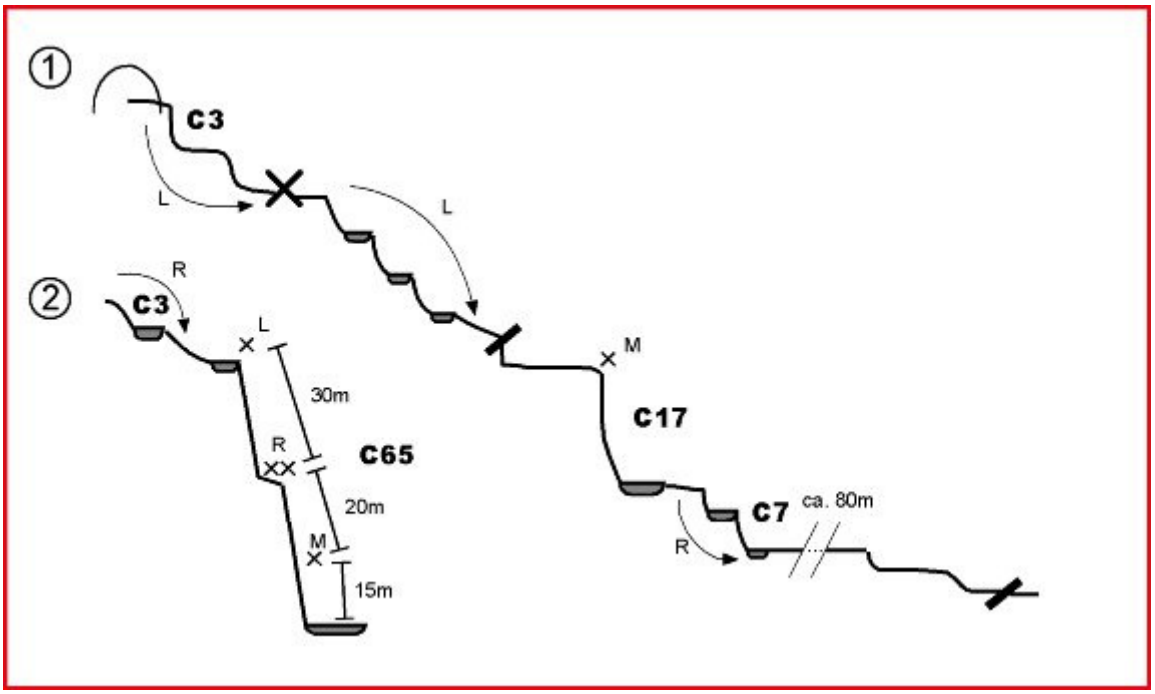

Tour: (machine translated)
The first small waterfall is immediately downclimbed orographically left. The second step leads to a blockage and the next pools. These must be bypassed on the left over the steep meadow, laborious and not without danger. Then you reach the first abseiling point. The next steps are again bypassed on the left and after a short hike and a small step, you reach the high point of the canyon. The Nixenfall is best rappelled in two stages, whereby the last belay directly in the waterfall is not to be used as an intermediate belay. Usually there is also a lot of tourists visiting the waterfall (and the canyoneers).

Return: (machine translated)
Follow the trail downstream and turn left at the signpost and return to the signpost you passed at the access. From here, follow the access path back to the car.
