Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We need two vehicles; we'll leave the vehicle for the return trip on the GC60. At kilometer 23, we'll turn onto the GC654 toward Risco Blanco and Agualatente. We'll drive all the way to La Culata and park there. We'll take the first vehicle to Pico de las Nieves.

Approach: (machine translated)
We'll follow the trail that leads to Pico Campanario; the last dip before the summit is ours. A few meters before that is the trail to Jierro, which we can take back if we're using only one vehicle.

Tour:

Return: (machine translated)
We follow the riverbed until we reach the road.
Since we're traveling with only one vehicle, we turn uphill at the intersection with the Jierro hiking trail. It's a strenuous, challenging, but very beautiful ascent.
