Summary: (machine translated)
Beautiful descent embedded in limestone rock. A pity that it does not usually carry water except during the rainy season.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We will leave Sant Llorenç de Morunys towards the village of La Coma, which we will cross and when we see the indicator of Km 32 of the C-462, in the next curve to the left we will find the ravine and the parking.

Approach: (machine translated)
One hundred meters down a track that crosses a farm. We will continue until we find a ravine; just here we will change direction and take a little obvious path uphill to the left, which we will follow until we reach a farmhouse. The path goes down to look for the riverbed bordering the farmhouse.

Tour: (machine translated)
This descent, along with the Torrent de Vilacireres, are the best known and busiest in the area. It is a very well formed descent, excavated in limestone. It usually carries water all year round. Short but very interesting descent. It is necessary to bear in mind that stones often fall.

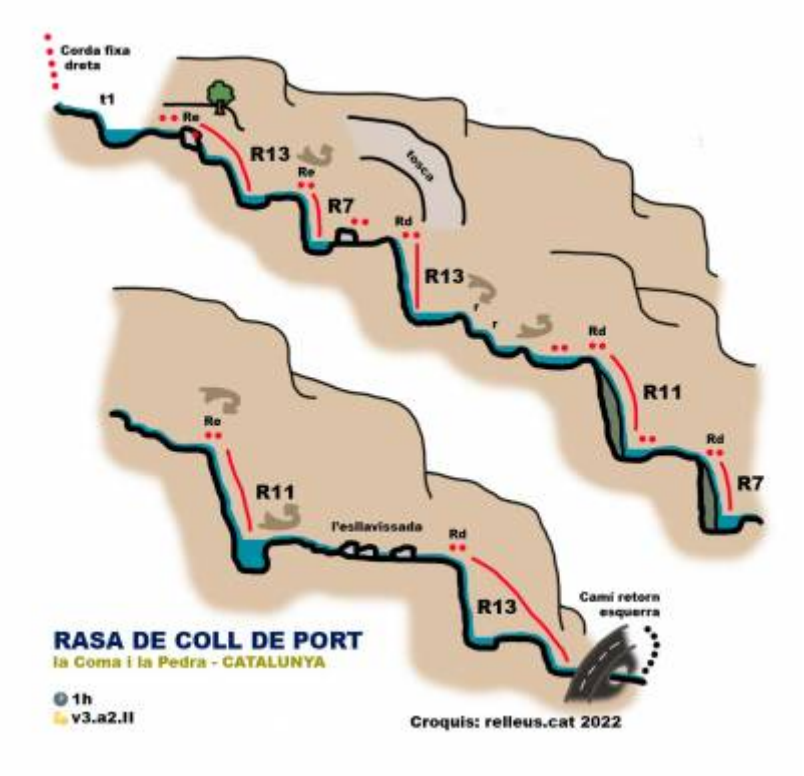

Return: (machine translated)
After the last rappel we find the bridge where we left the car. We cross the tunnel and climb up to the parking lot.
