Raw data import from Descente Canyons https://www.descente-canyon.com/canyoning/canyon/23466

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
Driving by car is possible until a hairpin bend after "Meielisalp". A driving ban begins there which should be strictly observed.

Approach: (machine translated)
Access from the mentioned parking lot: follow the path for 450 meters to the access bridge.

Access from the end of the canyon or without a car: take one of the hiking trails to the left or right of the stream.

Tour: (machine translated)
At the beginning it is a streambed hike, but soon the canyon becomes more interesting and there are some nice abseils in surprisingly good rock.

Return: (machine translated)
Follow the streambed under the dam and then look for a way out of the streambed on the left.

Amazingly beautiful short canyon very close to Lake Thun. Quite easy to walk, only rarely slippery or brittle. Many possibilities for pitons or natural anchors if needed. Currently, however, good anchors in quantity and quality. (machine translated)
