Specialities:

Gear:

Summary: (machine translated)
Mountain torrent, open, with many logs and precarious facilities. Great views for this beautiful descent if we do it with the right flow (late spring, early summer).

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We must be located in Lanuza village, next to Sallent de Gállego.
Location of the Portet and Rutaviesas ravines
By the N260 from Sabiñánigo to Biescas. We will continue straight on towards France by the A136 until p.k. 15.2 where we have the detour to the right to Lanuza by the dam. We will go to the same town, without entering it, following the road until a sharp left curve on our torrent. At about 60m there is an esplanade where to park.

Approach: (machine translated)
We will continue along the road for one kilometer until we see a sign on the right of PR next to the Suscalar ravine. We will go up this PR up to the hill of Peña Plana where the trail heads north. From here we will see the ravine but we must continue climbing for about 15 minutes along the trail until we reach the head of the ravine.

Tour: (machine translated)
Slippery descent with quite long rappels although not too vertical. Lots of logs all along the route.
In the middle part, the chaos of trunks, it is better to go through the forest, on the left to go around it.

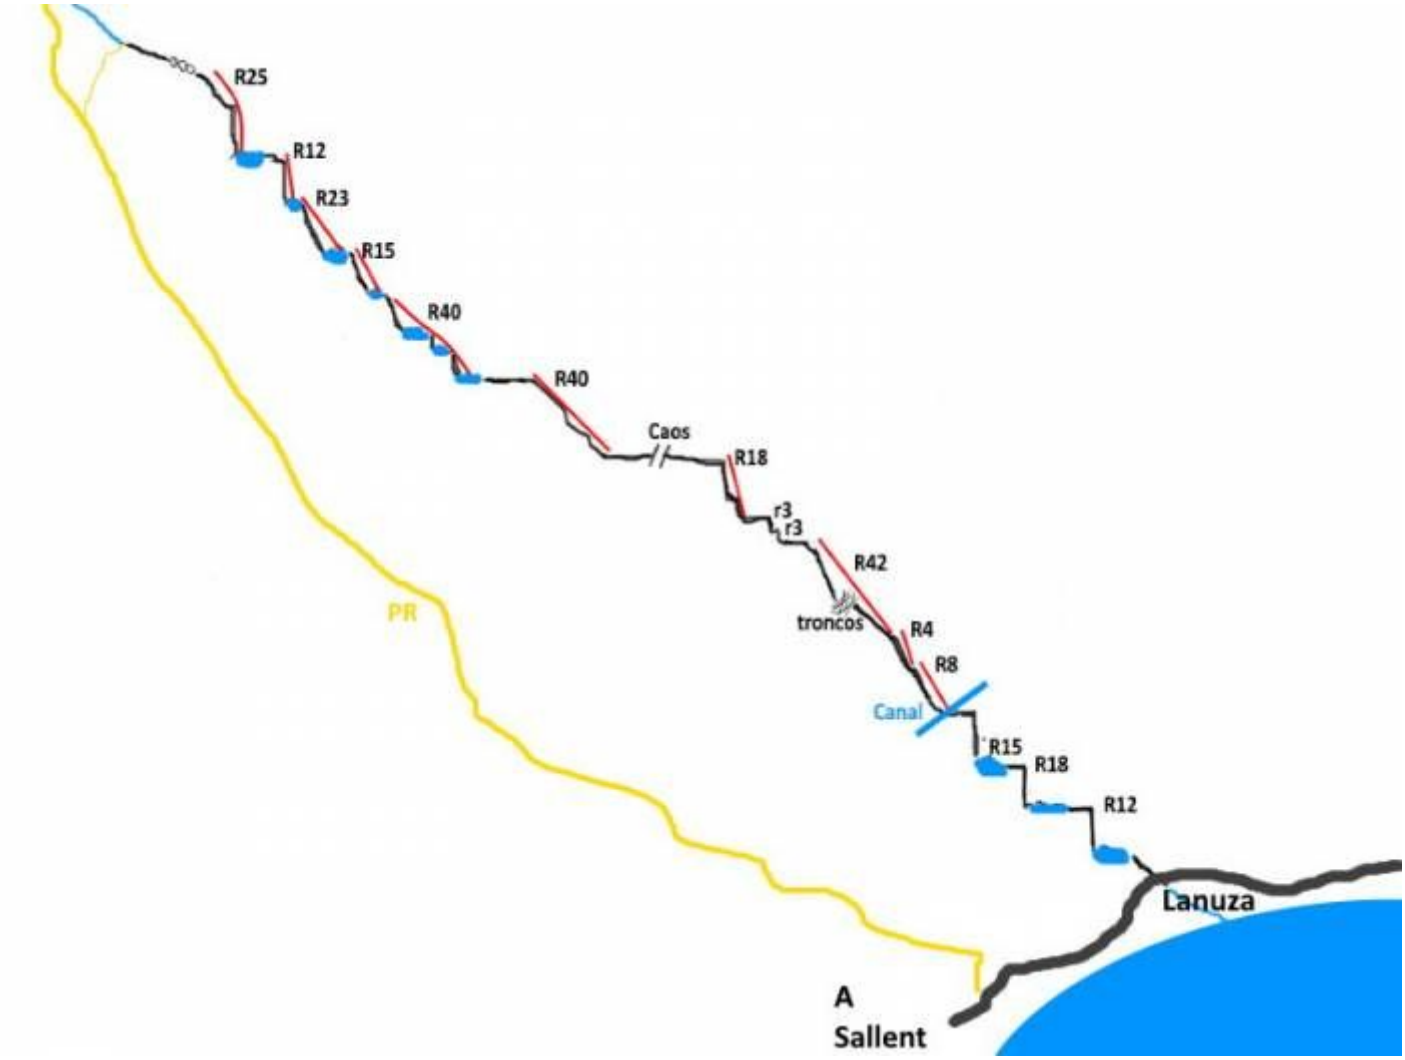

Return: (machine translated)
We will reach the road
