Summary: (machine translated)
Also known as Barranc del Rec, it is a generally dry canyon, except after rains, which will force us to combine cars. We will start in Andorra and finish in Lleida.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
On the N145 between La Seu d'Urgell and Andorra.
At the traffic circle of the Farga de Moles turn left towards Civis and after crossing the bridge turn right towards Arduix. We will go up through the chained horseshoe curves and after the last one (which is on the left), we will continue 150m until a slight left curve with a torrontera on our right, the exit of the ravine. We park here the return car.
With the access car we continue towards Andorra, cross the border and climb almost to Sant Julia de Loria. Just at the entrance we have the detour to the left to Fontaneda by the CS140. Without turning off we will arrive at Fontaneda and we will continue this same road south to Les Pardines. Here we will find a right turn and a little further the road cut. We will park here where we do not disturb

Approach: (machine translated)
Just at the height of the fence there is a gap to pass between both fences to go down the stream bed.

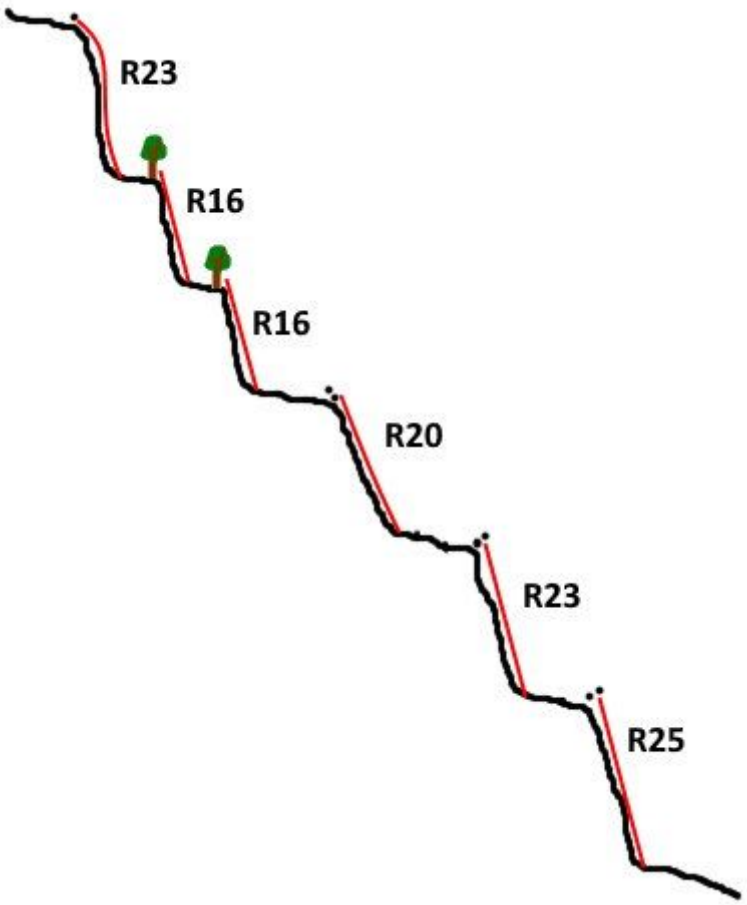

Tour: (machine translated)
Almost a collector's descent, little known but clean and interesting. After the last rappel we will have a while to walk along the torrent without great interest except for some cliffs.

Return: (machine translated)
We follow the torrent to the road
