Summary: (machine translated)
This is a ravine where you will enjoy up to 8 rappel zones, some jumps and a spectacular landscape among the cliffs of this beautiful ravine. The Majadas ravine is also known as the Hocecilla ravine, a small tributary of the Júcar into which it pours its waters.
The best time to do the ravine is after rains to enjoy it to the maximum, in summer it is also very spectacular as almost dry ravine.

Hydrology:

Access: (machine translated)
We head towards Villalba de la Sierra on the CM-2105. We enter the village and take the detour to Las Majadas CUV-9113.
In one kilometer a track comes out on our left. We follow it until we cross a stream, and shortly after a path leads to a ruined house. There we leave the car to return.
We return to the road again towards Majadas and 8 kms later we find an asphalted area on the right. Here we leave the second car.

Approach: (machine translated)
Jump the guardrail and go down to the river

Tour: (machine translated)
The longest rappel of the Majadas (13 meters) delights all participants in the activity. The canyon can be divided into three zones, the first open and in which a chaos of blocks is crossed, the second more spectacular with narrow walls and the third in an open channel with more water.

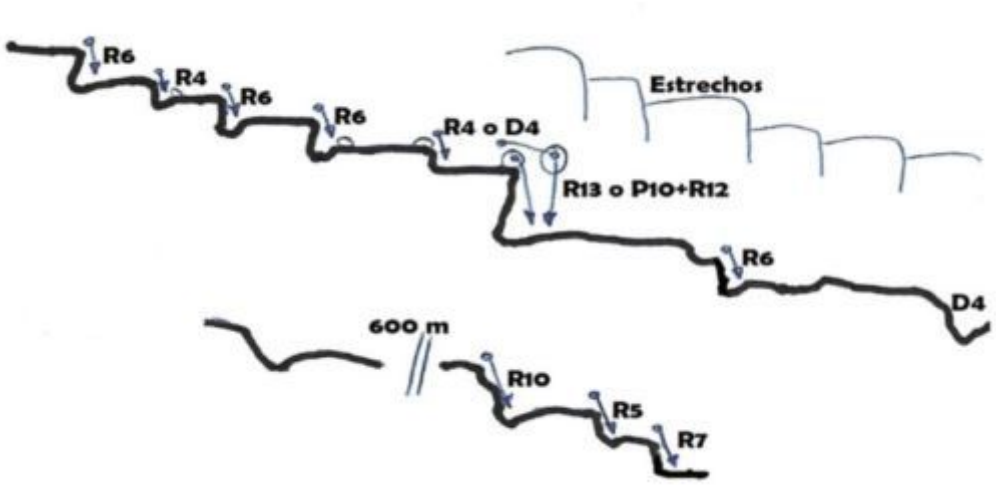

Return: (machine translated)
Follow the riverbed until you reach the area where you have parked.
